Airliner Is Hijacked By Venezuelan Terrorists

Caracas, Venezuela (AP)—Terrorists hijacked a Venezuelan airliner Thursday and forced it down in Trinidad where they were seized. The passengers and crew members returned Thursday night to Caracas.

The hijacking was the latest maneuver by pro-Communist Venezuelan terrorists out to overthrow the pro-Western government of President Romulo Betancourt and sabotage Sunday's national elections.

Trinidad's government handed over the hijackers—five men and a woman—to Venezuelan authorities in Port of Spain. The terrorists were to be returned to Caracas Thursday night, Venezuela's Interior Ministry said. They will be tried under military law and could be sentenced to 30 years each in prison.

An Interior Ministry spokesman identified the leader of the terrorist hijackers as a Commandant Vilmo.

In a related development, Betancourt's government charged Cuba with aggression, saying Cuba was the source of a three-ton cache of arms found buried on a sandy beach of Falcon State Nov. 3. It urged other Latin American nations to back a Venezuelan protest to the organization of American States.

Hunt Vainly

Caracas police hunted vainly for a U.S. Army officer, Lt. Col. James K. Chenault of Sherman, Tex., who was kidnapped Wednesday by persons identifying themselves as members of the outlawed Armed Forces of National Liberation. But the kidnappers promised to free Chenault Saturday. A woman telephoned newspapers that he spent a comfortable night and "is enjoying himself."

The hijackers were among 14 passengers on a U.S.-built, twin-engine Convair of the Avenza national airlines booked for a flight from Ciudad Bolivar, 280 miles southeast of Caracas, to Maiguetia, six miles north of this Venezuelan capital.

They proclaimed it from the start to be "a propaganda holdup."

The group struck shortly after the 6 a.m. takeoff, menacing pilot John Power and others aboard with revolvers to swing the plane off course. They showered Ciudad Bolivar with pro-Communist leaflets urging a boycott of a presidential election scheduled Sunday.

But nobody was hurt and Trinidad authorities took charge after the landing at Port of Spain. The leader of the gunmen was a man named Plino. The woman was Plino's wife, Olga.

The passengers were believed to include one American—Edward R. Richards, a staff engineer of the Koppers Co., Inc., of Pittsburgh, Pa. A company spokesman in Pittsburgh said Richards, a resident of Chicago, was assigned to Venezuela to help the government in the manufacture of a steel plant at Matanzas.

Venezuelan diplomats moved immediately to obtain return of the group and the plane, just as they did when five young Communists hijacked a four-engine Venezuelan airliner Nov. 27, 1961, and forced the crew to fly to the Dutch East Indies island of Curacao, 40 miles off the Venezuelan coast. Those hijackers now are serving four-year prison terms.

How much more sane, how much more devout and American it would be if all Americans could spend their fortunes and time in solving problems instead of pouring out hate and venom, he asked.

He noted that Wednesday he completed 32 years of service in Washington. He has known the presidents of that period from Herbert Hoover on, he added. In each administration, he said, the greatest burden the President had to bear was the burden of his own countrymen's hate and division.

Then he added:

"Let all who speak and all who teach and all who preach and all who publish and all who broadcast and all who read and listen, let them reflect on their responsibilities to bind our wounds and heal our sores."

Halt Hatred

He asked that the people turn off the springs of fanaticism and hatred.

He said this would perfect a national unity, north and south, east and west, and last on the day when bias of race, religion and region is no more and bring the day that is free of the burdens "we have borne too long."

He suggested that Americans thank God for the "years that he gave us inspiration through His servant, John Kennedy."

Seeks Prayers

He asked also for prayers for divine wisdom to ban from the land injustice and intolerance toward any Americans of whatever opinions or color of skin—"for God made all of us, not just some of us, in His image."

And he pledged "the best within me" to work for "a new day when peace is more secure, when justice is more universal, when freedom is more strong in every home of all mankind."

THANKSGIVING PLEA IS ISSUED

... By President Johnson

Washington (AP)—President Johnson spoke to his fellow Americans in a Thanksgiving message Thursday night, "to ask for your help, to ask your strength, to ask your prayers that God may guard this republic and guide my every labor."

Johnson made his appeal toward the close of a day that included some business as usual touches and attendance at inter-faith church services.

The family dinner at his home was put off until after his talk.

At the outset of his radio-television talk, Johnson mentioned his speech to Congress Wednesday and then said he wanted to come before the American public to ask their help, strength and prayer.

All Americans have lived through seven days that they will never forget, Johnson said, referring to the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

"A great leader is dead; a great nation must move on... tomorrow is ours to win or to lose. I am resolved that we shall win the tomorrows before us," Johnson said.

He said he hoped all Americans will join him to move from the midnight of tragedy to a new American greatness.

Thankful

He said that more than any preceding generation, "We have cause to be thankful this Thanksgiving day."

He listed off a list of accomplishments and blessings including, "That we live in peace."

"A deed that was meant to tear us apart," Johnson said, "has bound us together."

Quoted JFK

Johnson quoted from Kennedy's proclamation for Thanksgiving, issued early this month, invoking for the nation steadfastness and will inherited from forefathers.

He said that on Saturday when "these great burdens had been mine only hours" the first two to call him and offer their support were Dwight D. Eisenhower and Harry S. Truman, two of the three living ex-presidents.

Since last Friday, the President continued, Americans have turned to the good, the decent values of life.

Let It Snow—Bathhouse Still Gets Use

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

It would seem that nothing should be more deserted in the winter than a swimming pool bathhouse.

But it isn't necessarily so. At least not at Munny Center, which during the summer months is known as the Munny Pool bathhouse.

After the swimming season ends, the shower fixtures and ticket cage are removed and stored. Presto—and it is converted into an activities building for various City Recreation Department projects as well as a meeting place for various clubs and groups.

"Rock Hounds" Work

Three nights each week, lapidary classes are held in the north wing where "rock hounds" spend hours grinding and polishing stones and semi-precious gems.

Doris Pierce, a city recreation supervisor, says that the lapidary classes are one of the most popular activities.

Three separate classes are held each week and there's a waiting list, she said.

the chess class meets once a week in the south wing.

Fun Club

Other weekly users of Munny Center are the Fun Club, a city-sponsored activity for retarded children, and the Good Time Club for senior citizens.

Still others are the Lincoln Fishing Club and the Outdoor Club, a city-sponsored club for families who like hiking and other outdoor activities.

Miss Pierce says Munny Center can be used by most any club or group which needs a place to meet.

"We like to help these groups out until they get on their feet and can acquire their own regular meeting place," she adds.

Used by Actors

The Community Theater used the Munny Center for several years, producing "plays in the round" until the actors later acquired a building which they converted into a theater.

One winter, City Recreation Director Jimmy Lewis and his maintenance crew used a part of Munny Center to construct the "crooked house" and "crooked barn" which was then disassembled and erected in the Children's Zoo.

So, if you should see lights at night in the Munny Pool bathhouse, it's not because some life guard forgot to turn them off when the pool closed for the winter.

Calves 'Just Like On TV'

... KEARNEY SCHOOL LADS TO TEND 'HERD'

By GENE BUDIG

Kearney — The wide-eyed little boy straddled the fence. "One of those really mine?" he asked.

Fred Thomas, the assistant director of the Nebraska Boys Training School, nodded from across the way.

"Just Like TV"

"Sure wish the kids from home could see them. They're just like the cows on TV," the boy said.

His companions, ranging from 9 to 15 years of age, seemed quite taken, too.

Together, they will raise ten head of choice Hereford calves for one year.

It's part of a plan developed by Supt. William Ettinger and supplemented by a prominent area cattleman, who asks to remain anonymous.

"He gave us the cattle for 12 months," Thomas said. "The profits will be split between the boys and the school recreation fund."

Lack of Love

He explained that Ettinger selected boys who showed a lack of home love and care. "This will give them something to cling to," he noted. Those picked came primarily from urban population centers.

Thomas related that each boy will be assigned his own calf and will be required to keep detailed growth records. "The boys will be using various Nebraska-grown feeds for research," he said.

calendar days their request for a session. That would be used if the other fails.

The thinking behind those supporting Bolling's moves, which have McCormack's support, is that Smith will reluctantly call a hearing on the civil rights bill rather than permit his committee to be bypassed.

GOP Support

The success of both maneuvers depends on how much Republican support they receive. There aren't enough pro-civil rights Democrats in the House or on the rules committee to prevail without GOP help.

Although McCormack said every effort will be made to get a vote on civil rights this year, he and his associates probably would settle for some definite assurance that the legislation will be in a position for a vote in January.

Another Virginia Democrat, Sen. Harry F. Byrd, holds the answer to whether Kennedy's $11-billion tax cut proposal, which Johnson also picked up, will be acted on this year.

House Leaders Take Action To Hasten Rights Bill Work

Washington (AP)—House leaders started preparing two parliamentary moves Thursday to prevent the rules committee from blocking action on President Johnson's request for action on civil rights legislation.

One would completely bypass the committee. The other would temporarily strip Chairman Howard W. Smith, D-Va., of his control over the 15-member group. Smith is opposed to the civil rights bill.

Both moves are intended to produce early compliance—probably next January—with Johnson's plea for less talk and more action on civil rights as a living memorial to the late President Kennedy.

Johnson's speech to a joint session Wednesday ended all talk of adjourning Congress before Dec. 20.

Earlier adjournment "is out," House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., told newsmen.

Many members had planned to leave Washington around Dec. 14 and not return until the start of the next session, scheduled for Jan. 3.

Not This Year

They still may be able to follow that plan, for it is unlikely that a House vote can be arranged on civil rights this year.

The aim of the leaders' maneuvering is to have a bill ready for a showdown early next year. To do that without rules committee cooperation requires considerable time, and the leaders figure now is the time to start.

The first move to circumvent Smith's committee is a seldom-used House operation called the discharge rule. This was initiated in a resolution introduced Wednesday by Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., chairman of a civil rights subcommittee of the House Democratic Study Group.

4 Days

It calls for four days of House debate on the civil rights bill.

The resolution went to the rules committee, of which Bolling is a member. If Smith calls no committee meeting to consider it for seven legislative days, Bolling then can file a discharge petition to take the issue out of Smith's hands.

When signed by 218 members, a majority, the petition automatically brings the legislation to the House floor on specified days—the second or fourth Monday following the day on which the 218th signature was affixed.

Unlikely

Conceivably, the petition could force House debate starting Dec. 9, but that is unlikely.

The second parliamentary tactic at Bolling's command is a rule that says a majority of the rules committee—eight members—can call a meeting and take action if the chairman ignores for seven

Nation May Watch Ruby Trial On TV

Dallas (AP)—The nation may be permitted to watch the trial of Jack Ruby, indicted on charges of murdering pro-Communist Lee Harvey Oswald, the man accused of assassinating John F. Kennedy.

Tom Howard, lawyer for the defense, said Thursday, "In this case, I think there are strong arguments for live telecasts from the courtroom and I can see no reason why we would object."

Texas judicial rules do not bar cameramen from courtrooms, leaving the question to individual jurists. Judge Joe Brown said he has not decided.

Jerusalem, our citizens would be leaning against it and weeping and I would be one of the first. This is not prevention of hate. This is regret over its result.

"With gratitude we must remember that God is no stranger to national crisis. He still controls history. If we are truly grateful to Him... if we would demonstrate our gratitude, we must remember that there is nothing we can do for God except as we do for those whom he loves."

Fund Mounts

The fund for the J. D. Tippit family mounted but its total was not known.

Dallas Patrolman Tippit was slain trying to capture a suspect about 2½ miles from where the President was slain. Oswald was charged with murdering Tippit. The officer's superiors credit his death with leading them to Oswald and his relatively quick capture.

The FBI, now the prime agency in wrapping up evidence against the dead Oswald, remained silent about its activities.

Catholics Told To Ease Mixed Marriage Rules

Vatican City (UPI) — Joseph Cardinal Frings, archbishop of Cologne, Germany, urged the Ecumenical Council Thursday to ease Roman Catholic regulations against mixed marriages as a contribution toward Christian unity.

Cardinal Frings said church legislation should be changed so that the church can recognize the validity of a mixed marriage even when it is performed by a non-Catholic minister.

This is one of the most delicate points of contention with Protestants and such a move would be expected to be well-received by the non-Catholic Christian churches.

Supported

Msr. Ilario Capucci, superior general of the Basilian fathers, supported Cardinal Frings in the council debate on the historic document on Christian unity fostered by the late Pope John XXIII.

Cardinal Frings added that couples in which one of the members is a non-Catholic should be urged not to marry if they do not agree to bring up their children as Catholics.

But he said that ecclesiastical penalties for mixed marriages contracted before non-Catholic ministers should be removed from canon law.

Debate Slow

Debate, otherwise, was slow, with 14 speakers exercising their right to intervene on the second chapter of a document on Christian unity.

Debate on the chapter, which discusses practical paths to unity, was closed off Wednesday, but the speakers got their names on Thursday's list by getting the backing of at least six other bishops for their speeches.

Bishop Vicente Reyes of Borongan, the Philippines, said that women as well as Catholic men should be specifically exhorted in the document to pray for unity.

Summed Up

The German superior general of the Beuron Benedictines, Rev. Benedikt Reets, summed up from his experience what other Christians can accept or must reject in the Catholic Church.

He said they reject, "Contorted and acrobatic theology, too much scholasticism, excessive juridicism, and certain practices of folk piety." As things acceptable in the Catholic Church to other Christians, he listed Catholic liturgy with the chant, the church's traditional unity, monastic life, celibacy, and the sacramental document.

Only a few speakers had the chance to continue discussion of chapter three of the document on Christian unity. The chapter, on which debate opened Wednesday, deals specifically with the separate Eastern churches and Protestant and Reformed churches which split with Catholicism in the 16th Century.

Bishop Franjo Seper of Zagreb, Yugoslavia, told the council that all causes of separation are not necessarily theological. He said, "The influence of the devil, sin, differences of language, mentality and so on" are extremely important factors in the history of the division of churches.

Soviet Sculptor Back In Fold

Moscow (AP) — Soviet sculptor Ernst Neizvestni, once damned for his work by Premier Khrushchev, appeared Thursday to be back in the good graces of the Kremlin.

Neizvestni was accused by Khrushchev last winter of having produced in marble a "nauseating concoction" of a little boy with big outspread ears. The work was admired by Western critics and appeared not to have been far out in the field away from Soviet realism.

Neizvestni has produced a number of sculptured pieces in marble and bronze which have won praise abroad and condemnation here.

Now Tass discloses that he has received three commissions from the ministry of culture for statues of noted Soviet scientists.

The very fact that a reporter from the Soviet news agency was sent to interview him appeared to be the final seal of approval.

Tass published a story by Alexander Romanov, who began by saying simply that he had visited Neizvestni "a few days ago."

Thursday, when other correspondents went to see him, he made little comment other than to say that he was somewhat surprised when the Tass staffer came to see him. Since the condemnation of his work by Khrushchev, newspapers and magazines had not written a friendly word about him.

Now he is working on commissions by the culture ministry to produce busts of physicist Lev Landau, who was injured two years ago in an automobile accident and is only slowly recovering.

Nikolai Keldysh, president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences; and Mikhail Lavrentyev, head of the Siberian branch of the academy.

"A very interesting commission," Neizvestni said.

But more interesting to him was a big marble work of his own design which he said is the "Thought Square."

What Evidence Would Jury Have Had To Consider?

By ARTHUR EVERETT

Dallas, Tex. (AP) — Lee Harvey Oswald went to a lonely Texas grave this week in a plain wooden coffin, with a single spray of flowers atop it. Buried with him is the secret of his role in President John F. Kennedy's assassination.

"This man killed the President," says Dallas homicide Capt. Will Fritz. But saying it is not the same as proving it.

Did he? Most probably. But why? Only the 24-year-old Oswald could answer these questions specifically. But now the answers are locked with him beneath the sod in a Fort Worth cemetery plot.

What Evidence?

Had he not himself been killed by the owner of a Dallas strip tease joint, Oswald eventually might have been brought to trial. Presuming he stood firm in his denial that he shot President Kennedy Nov. 22, what evidence would a jury have had to consider?

First, as to motive: Oswald very likely was a Communist of sorts, at least a Marxist, a follower of the 100-year-old philosophy upon which much of the Communist ideology is based.

"He readily admitted he is a Communist," said Dallas Police Chief Jesse Curry after Oswald's arrest. "Apparently he was proud of being a Communist. He didn't try to hide it. Last year, Oswald said in New Orleans . . . he was not a Communist but a Marxist. But actually Oswald has never drawn any distinction between the two."

Dallas Dist. Atty. Henry Wade says:

No Evidence

"No, there was no evidence that said he was a member of the Communist Party. However, there was lots of material dealing with communism, such as the Daily Worker, and there was even more material dealing with the Fair Play for Cuba organization."

"At the age of 15 in his native New Orleans, Oswald was handed a pamphlet about Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, executed in New York in 1953 as Communist spies. The Communist Party has sought to make them out as martyrs.

This taste of an alien philosophy led Oswald to examine Karl Marx's "Das Kapital," the handbook of communism. He said later:

"It was like a very religious man opening the Bible for the first time. I could see the impoverishment of the masses before my own eyes in my mother. I thought the worker's life could be better."

In 1959, just out of the U.S. Marines, Oswald went to Moscow, where he sought to renounce his American citizenship. He declared then:

"Hate Is Fashionable"

"I've made up my mind I'm through. Capitalism has passed its peak. I've seen poor niggers (sic) . . . and that was a lesson. People hate because they've been told to hate. It's the fashion to hate people in the United States."

An American woman whom

Oswald met in Moscow, Priscilla Johnson, an expert on Soviet affairs, recalls:

"I soon came to feel that this boy was the stuff of which fanatics are made."

Oswald worked in a Minsk factory and there married a blonde Russian pharmacist, Marian Nicholaeva. When he died he left his widow with two daughters, June, about 4, and Rachel, 2 months.

Apparently becoming disenchanted with Russia, Oswald talked his way back to this country on the grounds that he never actually had obtained Communist citizenship. He came home in 1962, to New Orleans.

Castro Sympathy

There he showed signs of sympathy for Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro. His landlady twice made him take down pro-Castro signs he plastered on her porch. And he had a fight with anti-Castro Cubans who found him handing out pro-Castro literature.

Dallas Chief Curry says that after Oswald's arrest, photographs were found, showing him standing at attention, with a rifle in one hand and in the other a copy of the Communist newspaper, the Worker.

Pravda in Moscow and Red leaders in New York insisted that Oswald had no connection with the Communist Party. Yet, after his arrest, he announced he wanted for his lawyer John Abt of New York, well known as attorney for past Communist defendants.

Also, Castro's Havana government has announced that Oswald tried on Sept. 27 to obtain a visa, permitting him to go to Cuba and thence back to Russia. Had his disenchanted left him? Did he want to resume life behind the Iron Curtain? Or was he making preparations for an escape route — after the assassination of the President, perhaps?

Motive Search

All this a jury would have to consider in seeking a motive. Oswald himself could not be made to testify if he did not wish to.

Does it add up to a motive? Was it eccentricity, instability, or was it a pattern of life that led to assassination? Being a Communist would not prove a man an assassin. But a state of mind, an attitude toward the world around him, might prove motive.

Secondly, as to opportunity — Did Oswald have an opportunity to kill the President? He certainly did.

Kennedy was shot by a sniper from a window on the top floor of the six-story Texas School Book Depository Building, which overlooked the route of the presidential motorcade.

Oswald went to work for the firm last September, soon after it was announced that Kennedy would be visiting Dallas. A man working with Oswald shortly before Kennedy was shot says he told him:

"Oswald, let's go see the President."

"No," he quoted Oswald in reply. "you go on down and send the elevator back up."

So Oswald was in the building and had access to the window from which Kennedy was shot. As far as is known, no one saw him do the shooting. But neither was anyone able to offer him an alibi — place him somewhere else at the time of the slaying.

Next, the evidence —

The death gun found at the sniper's stakeout in the depository building was a 6.5 mm Italian carbine. Dallas Dist. Atty. Wade maintains:

"The gun was here, his prints were on the gun, the gun was the gun that killed Kennedy, his palm prints were on the box on which the killer sat, and witnesses put him on the sixth floor at the time of the shooting."

There was further evidence.

Oswald learned how to handle a gun in the Marines. Wade said he bought the assassination rifle last March for $12.78 from a Chicago mail order house. Authorities said they have a written order in Oswald's handwriting for the gun. An FBI check is said to show the serial number of the mail order rifle matched that of the assassination weapon.

The night before the assassination Oswald deviated from a rigid pattern and went to nearby Irving, Tex., to spend the night with his wife. Normally, he visited her only on weekends.

Next day, Mrs. Oswald noticed that a gun had disappeared from the garage, where it had been wrapped in a blanket. On the way to work in a neighbor's car next morning, Oswald carried a long paper-wrapped package. He said it contained window shades. It was long enough to conceal a rifle.

After the assassination, Oswald turned up four miles away from the depository building, near the rooming house where he lived in Dallas. When Dallas Police Officer J. D. Tippit tried to question him, eye-witnesses said, he shot the policeman dead with a pistol. If he wasn't running from the scene of another crime, why did he fear the officer?

After Oswald's arrest, paraffin tests were made in an effort to detect any particles of gunpowder on Oswald's hands, and Dist. Atty. Wade reported:

"Paraffin tests on both hands showed he had recently fired a gun"

Dallas Map

Even more damning evidence was found in Oswald's Dallas room. It was a map of the city of Dallas. On it were marks at various intersections where the Kennedy motorcade was due to pass. There also was a line drawn from the Texas School Book Depository Building to the spot about 75 yards away where the bullet struck the President—a trajectory faithfully followed by the assassin.

All the evidence outlined publicly so far is circumstantial. But circumstantial evidence is sufficient to prove murder, if the jury accepts it. It is defined as:

"Evidence that tends to prove a fact by proving other events or circumstances which, according to the common experience of mankind, are usually or always attended by the fact in issue, and therefore affords a basis for a reasonable inference by the jury or court of the occurrence of the fact in issue."

Subway Into Sun

More simply, if a man emerges from a subway into bright sunshine, but sees wet pavements, gushing gutters and droplets of water dribbling down store windows, he may reasonably infer that it has rained. He didn't see it rain but the evidence is sufficient for him to accept as fact that it has.

There is one final factor in almost any murder trial — Oswald would have had the right to plead insanity as a defense. But he would have had to prove it. The state would not have to prove him sane. The rule governing insanity in an American court-room generally follows the M'Naghton Law, which states:

"To establish a defense on the grounds of insanity, it must be clearly proved that, at the time of the committing of the act, the party accused was laboring under such a defect of reason from disease of the mind as not to know the nature and quality of the act he was doing or, if he did know, that he did not know he was doing what was wrong."

Woeful Elasticity

The woeful elasticity of this guide rule is so great that it leaves it almost entirely to the jury to decide whether a defendant is insane. While questioning Oswald, Wade himself said:

"I don't think he is a nut. I think he is sane. I don't mean he is any Ph.D., but he answers questions very easily and he is sharp."

That, then, oversimplified, was the known case against Lee Harvey Oswald if he had lived to go to trial—a case weak in motive, solid on opportunity and strong with circumstantial evidence.

"I've sent men to the electric chair with less evidence," Wade declared.

Catholics Told To Ease Mixed Marriage Rules

Vatican City (UPI) — Joseph Cardinal Frings, archbishop of Cologne, Germany, urged the Ecumenical Council Thursday to ease Roman Catholic regulations against mixed marriages as a contribution toward Christian unity.

Cardinal Frings said church legislation should be changed so that the church can recognize the validity of a mixed marriage even when it is performed by a non-Catholic minister.

This is one of the most delicate points of contention with Protestants and such a move would be expected to be well-received by the non-Catholic Christian churches.

Supported

Msgr. Ilario Capucci, superior general of the Basilian fathers, supported Cardinal Frings in the council debate on the historic document on Christian unity fostered by the late Pope John XXIII.

Cardinal Frings added that couples in which one of the members is a non-Catholic should be urged not to marry if they do not agree to bring up their children as Catholics. But he said that ecclesiastical penalties for mixed marriages contracted before non-Catholic ministers should be removed from canon law.

Auto Crash Kills Youth

Nebraska City (AP) — Seventeen-year-old Roger Reynolds of Nebraska City became the second traffic fatality victim of the holiday weekend in Nebraska Thursday.

Margaret Pickett, 20, of Tecumseh was killed near Pawnee City Wednesday night.

Reynolds died as a result of a two-car crash about three-quarters mile south of Nebraska City on Highway 73-75.

Otoe County Sheriff Ralph Hall said the car in which Reynolds was riding was struck from the rear by a car driven by John Curtright, 23, of Nebraska City and the gas tank of the first car exploded.

Curtright was injured seriously. Reported in critical condition in a hospital, the sheriff said, was Larry Bando, 18, of Nebraska City, who was in the car with Reynolds.

Grant Teenager 'Fair' After Kidney Transplant

Denver (AP) — Nineteen-year-old Ruth Mewmaw of Grant, Neb., was reported in fair condition at the Colorado General Hospital in Denver Thursday following a kidney transplant operation.

Miss Mewmaw received the kidney Wednesday from her father, the Rev. Lisle Mewmaw of Grant, a Methodist minister.

The operation was performed by a team of surgeons from the University of Colorado Medical Center and the Denver Veterans Administration Hospital.

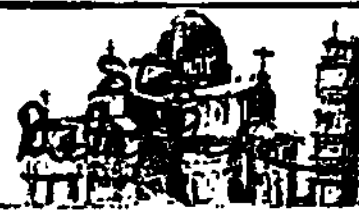

Miss Mewmaw's parents moved to Grant from Nelli last summer.

Grant residents are trying to raise $7,000 for expenses. Mrs. Mona Schroeder of the Grant weekly newspaper, the Tribune-Sentinel, which is spearheading the fund drive along with the Grant Methodist Church, said about $3,000 has been raised so far.

GIRL'S LEGS IDENTIFIED BY FRAUD TRIAL WITNESS

Hamburg, Germany (UPI) — An Australian witness in a Hamburg fraud trial Thursday identified a pretty girl by her shapely legs.

"Yes, that is she—I've seen her legs before," said Australian Stephen Michael, 43, when he saw the nylon-stockinged legs of dark-haired Doris Bless, 22.

Michael and Miss Bless were witnesses in the trial of two Britons charged with bilking male pen-pals in Britain, Canada and Australia of $11,300 by posing as German girls writing "love letters."

The accused Britons are Stephen John Grant, 46, of Hamburg and Robert D. Acland, 32, of Paddington.

Eavesdropped

Michael testified Wednesday he eavesdropped inadvertently on Grant and a German girl in a Hamburg coffee house last month and heard Grant urge the girl to give false testimony in court. He said he never saw the girl's face but might recognize her by her legs.

Today, on orders from Chief Judge Klaus Knieschke, Michael studied the legs of Miss Bless and Barbara Heyman, 23, another witness. Then he pointed at Miss Bless and made the announcement.

Judge Knieschke shook his head in apparent wonderment and grinned.

Miss Bless blurted, "Oh no, it's impossible. I haven't seen Grant since March."

Michael said, "I'm not absolutely certain—but by her figure and her legs it must be this woman," again pointing at Miss Bless.

Gas Refunds OKd

$10.4 Million Involved

Washington (AP) — The Power Commission has approved a settlement of two rate cases in which Northern Natural Gas Co., Omaha, will refund about $10.4 million to more than 50 wholesale customers in six midwestern states.

The refunds include interest. They cover sales made by Northern between Aug. 27, 1957 and Dec. 27, 1959, when the higher rates were in effect subject to refund. They are to be completed within 20 days.

Northern's utility customers serve nearly 700 communities in Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Nebraska, South Dakota, and Wisconsin.

The settlement does not affect Northern's rates for the future, which were fixed in a settlement approved by the commission in December, 1961. That settlement required Northern to refund about $12 million, plus interest.

Auto Crash Kills Youth

Nebraska City (AP) — Seven-year-old Roger Reynolds of Nebraska City became the second traffic fatality victim of the holiday weekend in Nebraska Thursday.

Margaret Pickett, 20, of Tecumseh was killed near Pawnee City Wednesday night.

Reynolds died as a result of a two-car crash about three-quarters mile south of Nebraska City on Highway 73-75.

Otoe County Sheriff Ralph Hall said the car in which Reynolds was riding was struck from the rear by a car driven by John Curtright, 23, of Nebraska City and the gas tank of the first car exploded.

Curtright was injured seriously. Reported in critical condition in a hospital, the sheriff said, was Larry Bando, 18, of Nebraska City, who was in the car with Reynolds.

Favor Red Trade

Strasbourg, France (AP) — Foreign Minister Joseph Luns of the Netherlands, president of the Common Market Ministerial Council, said the Common Market favors the principle of developing trade relations with Communist countries.

"Why so pale and wan, fond lover,
"Prithee, why so pale?"
In cheery, beery Milwaukee, Madame Blank tossed out her bread-winner, Herman. (Facts are facts. Only the names have been changed to protect the innocent.)

"And on your way, Hermie," she said. "Leave the trading stamps."

Herman, however, packed his toothbrush and the 14 books of trading stamps.

At the subsequent divorce hearing, the Judge ordered that he return them to Madame. It is a fine point of law and no doubt will be referred to by other barristers. Madame gets custody of the trading stamps.

"Cards were at first for benefits designed,
"Sent to amuse, not to enslave the mind."

Nonetheless, here is the advice of Erna Muller, marriage counselor of Cologne, Germany. She does not advise saving the marriage by use of cologne, the fragrant tonic. She says get out a deck of cards.

"Husbands and wives will almost end divorce if they will settle arguments by cutting the deck. High man wins. Reasoning and words only intensify and prolong the quarrel."

OK. You cut first.

"Ding, dong, bell,
"Pussy's in the well,
"Who put her in?"

The Max Planck Institute at Wuppertal, West Germany spent 10 years trying to find out why cats purr.

They studied 33 cats—black, brown, white and calico.

Now the Institute's department of animal psychology is ready with the word:

"Cats purr for the same reason human beings smile. Some cats are status seekers. They purr to curry favor with higher class cats."

Now you know.

"But oh, she dances such a way!

"No sun upon an Easter-day,
"Is half so fine a sight."

In glittering Las Vegas, Ben Satz, 58, was urged to join the conga line of chorus girls, as they congaed among the audience.

Alas, the chorine booted Ben painfully in the leg.

He sued. Dismissed said the Judge. Join the Navy and see the world. Join the conga line at your own risk. Doesn't seem just. But there it is. If you dance, they ought to give you chorus pay minimum anyway.

Denver (AP) — Nineteen-year-old Ruth Mewmaw of Grant, Neb., was reported in fair condition at the Colorado General Hospital in Denver Thursday following a kidney transplant operation.

Miss Mewmaw received the kidney Wednesday from her father, the Rev. Lisle Mewmaw of Grant, a Methodist minister.

The operation was performed by a team of surgeons from the University of Colorado Medical Center and the Denver Veterans Administration Hospital.

Miss Mewmaw's parents moved to Grant from Neligh last summer.

Grant residents are trying to raise $7,000 for expenses. Mrs. Mona Schroeder of the Grant weekly newspaper, the Tribune-Sentinel, which is spearheading the fund drive along with the Grant Methodist Church, said about $3,000 has been raised so far.

Parker Services

Set For Saturday

Charlotte, N.C. (AP) — A memorial service will be held Saturday for Tim Parker, Associated Press chief of bureau for the Carolinas, who died Wednesday night following heart surgery.

Parker, 46, will be buried at the Duke University Medical Center for research purposes. He had had two previous heart operations in an attempt to correct a defective valve brought on by a childhood attack of rheumatic fever.

Parker had been an executive and a newsman for the Associated Press for more than a quarter century. He joined the Associated Press in Lincoln, Neb., as a copy boy while a student at the University of Nebraska.

He later became a newsman and served in the AP bureaus in Omaha, Neb., Dallas, Tex., and Jackson, Miss. He took charge of the Carolinas' operations in 1960.

GIRL'S LEGS IDENTIFIED BY FRAUD TRIAL WITNESS

Hamburg, Germany (UPI) — An Australian witness in a Hamburg fraud trial Thursday identified a pretty girl by her shapely legs.

"Yes, that is she—I've seen her legs before," said Australian Stephen Michael, 43, when he saw the nylon-stockinged legs of dark-haired Doris Bless, 22.

Michael and Miss Bless were witnesses in the trial of two Britons charged with bilking male pen-pals in Britain, Canada and Australia of $11,300 by posing as German girls writing "love letters."

The accused Britons are Stephen John Grant, 46, of Hamburg and Robert D. Acland, 32, of Paddington.

Eavesdropped

Michael testified Wednesday he eavesdropped inadvertently on Grant and a German girl in a Hamburg coffee house last month and heard Grant urge the girl to give false testimony in court. He said he never saw the girl's face but might recognize her by her legs.

Today, on orders from Chief Judge Klaus Knieschke, Michael studied the legs of Miss Bless and Barbara Heyman, 23, another witness. Then he pointed at Miss Bless and made the announcement.

Judge Knieschke shook his head in apparent wonderment and grinned.

Miss Bless blurted, "Oh no, it's impossible. I haven't seen Grant since March."

Michael said, "I'm not absolutely certain—but by her figure and her legs it must be this woman," again pointing at Miss Bless.

When Knieschke ordered Grant and Miss Bless to exchange remarks—to duplicate the sound of the alleged coffee house conversation—Michael said again, "It was she, I am sure... I recognize her voice."

"This is the biggest lie I have ever heard," Miss Bless cried.

"We will never be able to clear this up," said the chief judge, turning to the other two judges and two laymen on the bench.

Grant and Acland are accused of writing letters under the names of German girls asking for money to buy a Hamburg-London plane ticket.

Some Holidays

You Can't Win

Cincinnati (AP) — Mrs. Anna Bosse had a rather unsettling Thanksgiving Day.

She came home from church and found a young man sitting on the couch with his shoes off and talking on the phone. He'd even fixed himself a hamburger and was drinking beer from a bottle.

Mrs. Bosse, 57, said he told her not to worry—he wasn't a burglar. He was just having trouble with his wife and had no place to go.

He then asked her to fix him a cup of coffee and after she brought him the cup, he said everything had been patched up and he was going home.

Mrs. Bosse told police she gave him 50 cents for bus fare — and then discovered he'd also helped himself to $3.50 from her purse while she was fixing the coffee.

Summary of Conditions

The strong northwesterly winds over the Nebraska-Iowa region have begun to diminish from west to east. Fair skies will dominate the area through Friday night with decreasing winds and colder temperatures to follow, even though the air mass is mostly of the Pacific type.

Little temperature change is expected Friday, even though more cold air will be transported into the region. Light winds and sunshine will make up for whatever the colder air mass brings in. Temperatures will be warmer Friday night in north and west Nebraska.

A strong high pressure area over Idaho continues to build and will dominate that region through Friday night. By Friday noon the high center over Idaho will be connected with high centers over western Kansas, western Nebraska, and western Oklahoma. The air mass will remain basically dry.

More Than Declaration

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Testimony has been presented to a Senate Labor subcommittee to the effect that one-third of the draft-age men of the nation are unfit to serve. The statement, not an especially new one, came from Assistant Secretary of Labor Daniel P. Moynihan. Almost half of the young men who did report for induction during the past year, he said, failed to qualify—nearly 50% of them failing on mental grounds.

There are few indeed who would say that the situation is an encouraging one.

Beyond Point Of Help

Rather, most people would agree that it is a startling report and that something should be done about it. At this point, however, too many would forget about it. They believe that these people should receive some kind of help but that is about the extent of their opinion. The unfortunate part of things is that help for such people is not really the answer. There may be some things that can be done but it should be remembered that they are individuals who have reached maturity.

They are individuals who have formed their opinions and have been molded into a character and way of life that by now is quite firm with them. Thus, the place where action is needed is at a point back beyond the current times of these draft rejects. The point of action should be at the place of their beginning. They were not born, most of them, to be mental misfits but they are as a result of someone's wasting their lives for them.

How dear we hold the belief that all men are created equal but how little we sometimes do to put meaning into this belief. All men are not created in equality because the future of people is composed of so many things. Two things are of vital consideration—what you have and what you do with it.

Some children are smarter, it seems, than others but few are those who have insufficient capacity to attain quite a respectable level of learning. At an early age some children develop tendencies or likes that dictate the remainder of their years while others go along in no special direction for up to 18 and 20 years or more. It is not really unusual for a young person still to be undecided as to his or her future even as a sophomore or junior in college. But what is important to them is that they are given the opportunity to further the development of their potential. It is important that they are physically strong and mentally alert. They must be stimulated to a degree sufficient to guarantee that they are able to stand on their own two feet when the time comes to stand alone.

It is not enough to say that all men are created equal. It is not enough to say that something should be done with people, particularly young ones, whose lives seem to be directed toward complete failure. What is incumbent upon us all is to direct our thinking and our resources toward the elimination of situations which contribute toward the perpetuation of social injustices against selected individuals. The selection is not by our own choosing but is of our own responsibility. We do not single out any certain children and dictate that they shall not be properly educated or that their home life shall be such as to destroy rather than build up their character.

In a broad sense, however, this is what we might as well do for it is the end result of our failure to act in a more responsible manner. Somewhere in our regard for the welfare of others seems to be a blind spot and perhaps a conflict with our regard for the individuality of mankind.

So little is done to attempt to work with a family or neighborhood situation which we know from sad experience will produce a human burden upon the rest of our society. We sustain life, at a bare minimum, and have the strange belief that to do more would only destroy the dignity of the individual, his pride and his capacity to provide for himself.

In the process we heap upon the deprived individual a responsibility with which he cannot cope and rights that he cannot understand. What good does it do a small child or a young boy or girl to have the privilege of education, for instance, if they have no appreciation whatsoever of its importance? One might as well try moving to the immediate industrialization of backward nations by equipping them with the latest tools of mass production and laboratories for advanced research. We might give them in this way every opportunity to progress but certainly no means of cashing in on the opportunity.

We need a much more realistic and human approach to the social problems of the day if we really have any intention of helping the thousands upon thousands who turn out an actual burden to the world. In the field of human relations, our nation has made less progress, perhaps, than it has in a multitude of other areas.

Privilege But No Means

Schools No Place For Sentiment

One might not expect it, but from the editorial page of the Scottsbluff Star-Herald comes a reasoned advancement of the cause of school district reorganization. It might not be expected there because this newspaper is located in a land of great distances. It serves the Sand Hills region of the state where there are extensive and vast ranch holdings. It is not the kind of country most conducive to small school districts.

Scotts Bluff County itself does not have an unusually or comparatively large number of school districts. With the exception of sparsely populated Banner County, Scotts Bluff County at 28 has fewer districts than most of the surrounding counties. Cherry County, where distances really are vast, has a total of 101.

But the Star-Herald makes note of the fact that there is too much emotion involved in many reorganization questions and too little consideration of facts. There is a certain nostalgia for the one-room school and a simple liking for a school within a mile of home.

These are considerations, of course, but there are such facts to look at as the greater efficiency of larger school units, the growing shortage of teachers and the competition for them and the school levy in relationship to the total tax levy of all governments.

Certainly, distances are a factor and a hard reality to get around but Nebraska can solve many of its school problems if it has the desire to do so. "An open mind toward reorganization is needed," comments the Star-Herald, "... followed by help and practicality in working out the details."

A President Before The Vote

Mexico will elect a president next July.

Unless prevented by an act of fate or an illegal deed the man who will be elected is Gustavo Diaz Ordaz, 52-year-old former college professor, long time public servant, and current Minister of the Interior.

His election was assured at the moment of his nomination. That is the way they do things in Mexico. The one great Mexican political party is the Institutional Revolutionary Party. It has named the presidents the past 40 years.

North of the border many will marvel at this paradox—a practicing democracy which votes, yet seemingly has nothing to say when it comes to the election itself. Rather, it sounds like totalitarianism.

But on close inspection such conclusions tend to dissolve. If Mexico has a one party system it is because it has enjoyed the massive support of the people. Its policies and practices may have been devised by a high minority, but it actually exists by public acceptance. There is a difference between political practices applied and enforced from above and those supported from below.

The day may come when Mexico will change this; when the disfavor of the major party brings forward a major rival, born from the will of the people.

The strength of Mexico's Institutional Revolution Party continues to be in its dedication to the aims of the Mexican revolution and its steady progress in bringing about the desired reforms. It has brought peace and security to Mexico. It is making gains for education, industry, justice and resources development. It is this evidence of good faith that gives it public support and in that sense it has its authoritarian characteristics seated in democracy.

An Uphill Job

Backers of the petition campaign for a partisan legislature admit that the task of securing sufficient signatures for a state referendum is proving more difficult than anticipated.

After considerable work they have obtained some 15,000 signatures. A total of 47,000 signatures, fully validated, are needed.

Dallas A Capital For Hate Mongers

WASHINGTON — If you study the history of American presidents who have been assassinated, you find that most of these tragedies did not come about through the fanaticism of one man. They came about because powerful influence - molders in the nation had preached disrespect and hate for the authority of the government, and the man in the White House who symbolized government.

In the city where President Kennedy was killed, the Dallas News had long preached disrespect for the President. Its publisher, Ted Dealey, had accused Kennedy of running the nation as Caroline rode her tricycle. On the day the President arrived, the Dallas News carried a full page ad berating Kennedy in vitriolic language.

It was placed by the "American Fact-finding Committee," an unheard of committee and signed by Bernard Weissman, a shoe salesman. It gave as an address, "P. O. Box 1792—Dallas 22."

President Kennedy obviously did not know about this editorial in advance. But he did know that Dallas had attacked and insulted Adlai Stevenson, that Bruce Alger, the Republican congressman from Dallas had done the same to Mrs. Lyndon Johnson; and that Dallas was one of the most vitriolic cities in the U.S.A.

Knowing this, Kennedy had prepared a speech which in mild and scholarly language reminded the people of Dallas that "in a world full of frustrations and irritations, America's leadership must be guided by the lights of learning and reason."

"There will always be dissident voices heard in the land," he said, "expressing opposition without alternatives, finding fault but never favor, perceiving gloom on every side and seeking influence without responsibility."

"But today," he said, obviously with Dallas in mind, "other voices are heard in the land - voices preaching doctrines wholly unrelated to reality... which assume that vituperation is as good as victory, and that peace is a sign of weakness."

Dallas's answer, even before that speech was delivered, was to shoot John F. Kennedy.

After that answer, William R. Matthews, a neighboring editor of the Arizona Daily Star in Tucson wrote this editorial:

"The hatred-preachers got their man. They did not shoot him: they inspired the man or men who did it."

"I was in Dallas last week at a meeting of men from all over Texas. I was discouraged and alarmed over the violence of the hatred expressed not only against Jack Kennedy but at Lyndon Johnson... the haters and the name-smearers have reaped what they preached."

Australia Starts Reform Of Money

MELBOURNE, Australia. —In its accelerating dash into the space age, Australia is performing an expensive act of courage affecting the daily life of every citizen. It is changing the money.

Not only will it drop the cumbersome British system of pounds, shillings and pence in favor of decimal coinage; it is going off the deep American end and will straight out call its major coin of 100 cents the dollar. The great changeover is scheduled for 1966.

All this took a little doing, timidity being the occupational disease of politics. Apparently fearing an emotional reaction against the word so indelibly identified with the Americans — through the Spanish used it first — the word "royal" for the 100-cent coin was given a trial run in decimal discussions. It seemed that nobody objected to dollars as such. A June, 1963, poll showed it a heavy favorite over the royal pound and other suggestions, including that of the inventive Melbourne voter who came up with "quick-uid."

It will not perhaps be particularly consoling to the motherland that the lesser coins planned so far bear British names. A 50-cent piece will be a crown. It is called here a prestige piece as it will be silver and is not expected to enjoy wide usage.

Next in line will be a 20-cent coin, the florin, and a 10-cent coin, the shilling. Five-, two-, and one-cent pieces have not yet been named. Except for the two- and one-cent pieces which will be bronze, these will be alloys.

Australia's conversion to decimals will leave only five nations loyal to pounds, shillings and pence a la British. They include, of course, the British, plus New Zealand, Nigeria, Ghana and the African Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland. The smaller nations of the group had colonial ties to the old empire.

Australian experts point out rather smugly that England has had since about 1840 five royal commissions charged with examining the coinage and its possible conversion into a decimal system.

In 1850 one historian of the early efforts wrote that "the great monetary effort of the present reign (Victoria's) was the minting of the florin which is our first step toward a coinage entirely based on the decimal system." Somehow the second step got lost.

The decimalists here also like Sir John Bowring's argument, made in 1854, that "every human being — man, woman and child — has been provided with a set of decimal machines, in the shape of fingers or toes, which even in early childhood and among the rudest nations have been used for the purposes of account. It may indeed be deduced from the fact that as ten fingers were given to man they would naturally be employed for intellectual as well as physical purposes to calculate with and to perform the common handicraft functions of existence."

Australia, having settled on the principle, is moving on to the question of who must foot the bill for such major change in finance and trade, especially in smaller businesses. That cost is estimated at $30 million.

THE NEIGHBORS SAY

Dog, The Mightier Hunter

By MONA B. PARKER

So far, approves the Schuyler Sun, "very little overcoat and mitten weather."

Editor Harp of the Curtis Enterprise thought the weather was reasonably warm, too, one recent Sunday afternoon. Even went fishing. But "a fall into the creek dropped temperatures considerably."

At Alma, almost the same thing happened, a combination of elements of two seasons. A local fisherman was huddled on the bank when he was startled by the snorting of a buck deer behind him. The Harlan County Journal reported that he nearly "took an ice bath in the river."

There are other inconsistencies in the sports field that Bob Pinkerton, Kimball editor, wonders about, even to the point of speculating on labor - management angles

"Why is it that pheasant hunters always see several deer on an outing and deer hunters see pheasants galore? Is there an animal union being groomed for the AFL-CIO?"

The Comstock News had one more story to prove again the old assertion about man's best friend, especially a hunting man...

Elwood Speer had come up from Oklahoma to visit his folks and do a little woods tramping with a gun. The two standard excuses for not coming home with a bag—no birds, and the gun's being off—were of no use to him. He saw plenty of birds but couldn't hit them, even though he tried three different shotguns.

The News got a large-sized chuckle at the story's conclusion. Mr. Speer was hunting behind a pointer which finally got so disgusted at his master's poor shooting that he caught a pheasant and brought it to him.

Loss Of Dignity

Firth, Neb.

During the time when the entire nation and the world mourned the passing of the President, Nebraska football fans went to a football game. Channel 10 showed football Saturday and Sunday during the time when people all over the world were paying their respect to the late President.

This shameful decision to play the game was not made by the students. Probably, if they had been given an opportunity to decide, they would have cancelled it.

Even commercially owned football teams throughout the country cancelled their games in respect to the President. Students in foreign countries went out into the cold night to demonstrate their sorrow. The University of Nebraska, which should have been an example for young people by mourning with the nation, went ahead with its football fun. The late President stated in one of his famous speeches: "There is a time for everything... a time to rejoice... a time to mourn..."

Lincoln and the University of Nebraska have lost their dignity before the entire nation. A city which prides itself for having the most churches and church-going people simply postponed its mourning until Monday—by presidential decree.

BEATRICE NORRIS

The First Step

Bennet, Neb.

Many editorials have been written because of the tragic death of our President. The one on the front page of The Star on Saturday, November 23, has given all of us something on which to meditate.

Sometimes it takes something such as we have experienced to shock us into sanity. And it would indeed be a pity if no good would come from it. For one thing, we all have reviewed history, both past and in the making. Had we kept up to date on some of the things that our President stood for, he perhaps would not have had to sacrifice his life for a just cause. Prejudice and hatred have been the cause of crime since the days of Cain and Abel and 2,000 years ago, the greatest crime of all was committed because He, too, stood for what was right morally.

We can be proud of a leader who had the courage to take up the promotion of justice and equality for all, where Lincoln had to give up.

Isn't it time we all sat

The Bertrand Herald calls it the mystery of the year, and it must be agreed that it has a holiday flavor. Certainly there was flavor involved, that of succulent baked chicken. The "when" is known. The mystery involves the who and the why. Mrs. M. B. Kuhn had prepared the chicken, along with dressing and other trimmings. Leaving the dinner in the oven, she drove downtown to get her husband. When they returned, it was discovered that someone had opened the oven, cut off the drumstick of the roasting bird, the thigh and one wing, closed the oven and departed. It was not a case of the thief's getting the bird, but at least a satisfying portion of it.

"Twenty pheasant roosters are the possession bag limit in Nebraska and the last time we talked to Elwood, the dog still had 19 to go."

One way not recommended to fill one's Thanksgiving table was that tried by an Oxford resident. He helped himself to three turkeys from a local pen, tucked them into the trunk of his car, and circled around the owner's pickup truck when accosted, only to be nabbed by the Highway Patrol when his car stalled.

Cost of the dinner, which he didn't get, anyway, added up to a stiff $100 fine, plus court costs, and the loss of his driver's license halfway until next Thanksgiving.

It was righteous indignation on the part of Mrs. Lester Eastwood, both in her capacity as a cook and as a farmwife, when she came across a new pumpkin pie recipe calling for just one egg. It has always taken two or three eggs for the right texture and flavor, she maintains. Anything less produces a confection that is "mushy."

Mostly, her wrath is directed at what appears to be a conspiracy somewhere along the line to reduce egg consumption.

"That a spending, happy public is penny-pinching when it comes to buying eggs is pretty hard for the egg producer to take, especially when, for many months, eggs on the farm level have been bringing 25 to 30 cents a dozen, often less. Even at a much higher retail level, the price of eggs hasn't kept up with prices of other foods and certainly not with pay increases. An hour's pay today will buy several times as many eggs as it did 25 or 50 years ago."

leaders have no fear of the future's being less ably handled than by his predecessor. In fact, he and another renowned Texan were a team that has been sorely missed since their days in the U.S. Congress.

Therefore, let us lay aside our doubts and dedicate ourselves to praying for him and do our bit for our nation in upholding the goals and ideals set forth by our sires. No doubt he will be severely tried and tested again and again at home and abroad for a period of time to learn of what spirit and mettle he is possessed. But we feel assured he will successfully meet all challenges as befits the President of the strongest and richest nation on earth today.

Looking Ahead

Now that our very able President, John F. Kennedy, has been laid away in the grave, we face the future. Mr. Lyndon B. Johnson has been installed in the saddle. We may wonder what the future holds for a sorrowing world. We who have known Mr. Johnson's contributions to our nation in many past seasons, his ability as a politician and statesman, his energy and zeal in his labors, his skill in dealing with people and the issues that face our

We hope and pray that recent events will bring about in the long-run a better and happier America.

Speed Limits

Lincoln, Neb.
It seems to me, since the state is having "No Parking" signs put up along west South Street, that they should also put up speed limit signs of about 25 miles per hour. I have a girl who rides a bicycle up and down this street to and from school. Some people who drive on west South seem to think it is a speedway and don't slow down even for the railroad tracks.

I think the speed limit through here should be from 25 to 35 miles an hour, but not over 35. But, of course, I have nothing to do with it.

OFF THE RECORD

Many Sources Repeat Pleas Against Hatred

By the Associated Press
"Let us put an end to the teaching and preaching of hatred and evil violence," President Johnson has demanded of the nation after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

"Let us turn away from the fanatics of the far left and the far right, from the apostles of bitterness and bigotry, from those defiant of law, and those who pour venom into our nation's bloodstream."

"I profoundly hope that the tragedy and torment of these terrible days will bind us together in new fellowship, making us one people in our sorrow."

This plea and hope has been voiced repeatedly throughout the nation—in pulpit, capital and editorial—since the assassination.

Renewed Unity
Many saw in President Kennedy's murder an opportunity for renewed strength and unity in America. Texas Gov. John Connally, wounded with Kennedy and speaking from his hospital bed, was one.

"To shock and stun a nation and its people and the world to what is happening to us through this cancerous growth of extremism," Connally said, "this is the only answer I can give you on why he is gone and I am not . . ."

"The genesis of our self destruction—if we are going to be destroyed—comes from this extremism . . ."

"It makes you ponder and wonder if you are making the contribution you should make to society because you never know when a thing like this can happen."

Council Head Quits
J. (Bud) Nelson resigned as head of the Tacoma, Wash., chapter of the Citizens' Council of America, explaining,

"I feel that every radical, left and right, had his hand on the rifle butt and finger on that trigger. We are all guilty of fomenting hatreds of one sort or another."

John Hay Whitney, editor and publisher of the New York Herald Tribune, saw a nation drawing closer together.

"This, despite the Birchers and Klu-Kluxers and peddlers of hate, is a sign that whatever our uncertainties, whatever our divisions, they are not so deep that they divide us fundamentally," Whitney said.

"Can we eschew the little things, the nasty nomenclature of hate?" asked the Columbia (S.C.) Record.

"Let us pray that we be given the necessary sustenance to do so. It will mean that we, as a people, will have to abandon some of the nauseous nicknames we have affixed to the men who head us and seek to assist us, nationally."

Takes Out Malice
Expressing concern about a "crescendo of hatred and disrespect," New Mexico Gov. Jack M. Campbell said "I hope this takes some of the malice out of people and makes them realize that it is possible to disagree without being disagreeable or hateful."

"America has been on a drunken spree of hate and we in Alabama share the blame," said State Circuit Judge Roy Mayhall, Alabama Democratic chairman.

This view was not shared by the New York Daily News, which said:
"We think most Americans are going to go right on hating reds—and the more so because one of these rodents killed a much loved young U.S. president . . ."

"This 'we're all to blame' stuff just won't wash, as we see it, and is an insult to 99 Americans out of 100, or maybe 999 out of 1,000."

'Best And Worst'
Michigan Gov. George Romney said the assassination brought out the best and the worst in America. Grief and self-examination could bring strength, he continued, but "we'll experience an even greater tragedy if this . . . fails to produce an improvement in our attitude as a nation."

The Denver Post summed up:

"We do not expect that the unity and common understanding which have been forged in this hour of sorrow will endure without some weakening in the weeks and months that lie ahead. But some of the gain in national spirit is bound to stay with us and strengthen our national life."

Strange Lull Settles Over Indonesia-Malaysia Conflict

Jakarta (AP)—A strange lull has settled over Indonesia's verbal confrontation against neighboring Malaysia. For two weeks hardly a harsh anti-Malaysia word has been spoken in Jakarta.

Yet there seems to be no indication of any relaxation in Indonesia's policy.

Indonesia expressed its feelings with nonrecognition of Malaysia when the new nation was formed last September, and followed this up with a complete trade boycott with Malaysia.

There is speculation the lull may be tied to Indonesian efforts to reorganize the nation's import and export patterns, once tied to the Malaysian ports of Singapore and Penang. Officials have found their hands full.

Linked to this could be possible Indonesian efforts to smooth over some of the antagonism which the harsh line against Malaysia and Britain has spawned in Western nations.

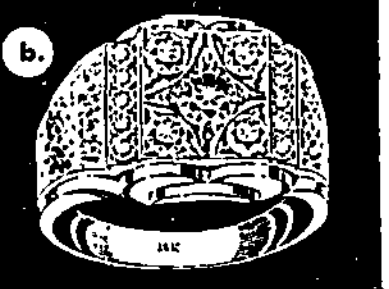

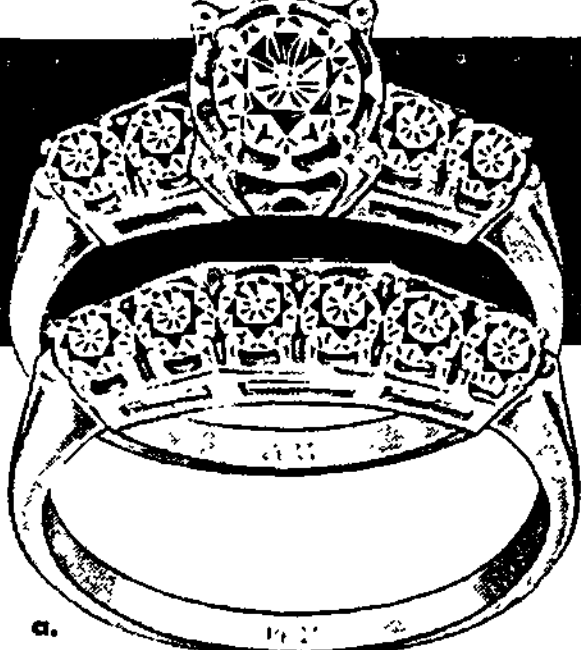

Recovery of the Indonesian economy, particularly at this time, would depend much on foreign aid. Some of that aid is expected to come from the West.

The Indonesian foreign office is keeping a watchful eye on efforts by Malaysia and the Philippines to settle their differences on a basis that would save face all around.

The official Antara news agency publishes reports of continued anti-Malaysia guerrilla activity in Malaysian Borneo. Military officials are quoted at length as assuring the nation that all are on alert against the Malaysian enemy.

MURAL SHOULD BE SMASH SUCCESS

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
New York (UPI)—This is a smashing story about Shirley Tattersfield, muralist.
If she lived in a glass house, she'd probably throw stones. It could only help her current project.

The Philadelphia right now makes her living smashing glass. The destruction is in connection with the construction of a 78-foot mural Miss Tattersfield has been commissioned to create for an exhibit at the New York World's Fair.

If you think that's a long mural, you're wrong. Miss Tattersfield once did a mural one-quarter of a mile in length in Palm Beach, Fla. That involved painting a fence to make it look like a circus train. She and her fellow muralist, Marion Ayres, wore pith helmets, shorts, shirts and sneakers for that project. They used brushes 10 inches wide—and finished in 10 days.

"But that project wasn't as bloody as the current one," Miss Tattersfield said in an interview.
"We wear goggles to protect our eyes but our hands frequently get cut when we smash the glass. It's not in the contract, but lots of the stained glass in the 'Triumph of Man' mural also is stained with blood."

Staff Of 10
Miss Tattersfield, president of her own firm and a graduate of the Philadelphia Museum School of Industrial Art, supervises and works with a staff of 10 men and women, all of them young, most of them trained by her in this exacting work.

Examples of her work can be seen in the American Hotel and Toots Shor's restaurant in New York. There also are Tattersfield murals in San Francisco, New Orleans, Puerto Rico and many other places. They adorn hotels, stores and office buildings.

The mural for the Travelers Insurance Companies exhibit, the "Triumph of Man," will be illustrated by a series of dioramas showing his progress through the ages. The mural will depict how the earth itself came into being from a universe of gases.

Plexiglass
Smashed and shattered cathedral glass used in the project comes from England, Germany and Italy. Molten plexiglass is used to hold the bits and pieces together.

Some of the Tattersfield murals use seeds.
"The seed company thinks we're a bit blotto when we order 25 pounds of beige, 40 pounds of white and then ask for 75 pounds of a nice yellow. If they have it," she said.
"We always want non-germinating seeds. The germinating ones sprout and ruin the mural."

PRIESTS ATTEND COUNCIL

Monsignor Max G. DeWitt, officials of the Lincoln Diocese, and Father Rawley J. Myers, editor of the Southern Nebraska Register, attended Valcan Council session for four days recently as guests of Bishop James V. Casey of Lincoln. The two priests also met Pope Paul VI personally following a general audience which they attended with Bishop Casey.

Snuff-Sniffing Makes Comeback In Britain

London (P) — More snuffers are sniffing snuff in Britain today than at any time since before World War II. And to please women customers they now have scented snuff!
"Half a million Britons are spending 5 million pounds ($14 million) a year on snuff," said a spokesman for the snuff makers, "and more and more women are joining the ranks."
Pausing for a sniff, he added:
"It's becoming a vogue all over again. Teen-agers are taking to it too. It's not unusual at all to see a beautifully gowned woman or a debutante take a box out of her handbag and sniff in public."

Exotic Brands
The Society of Snuff Grinders, Blenders and Purveyors is turning out exotic brands.
For the ladies there are mixtures that smell of hyacinths, roses, wallflowers, carnations and poppies.
And apparently to whet male appetites, there are blends with tangs of peppermint, lemon apple, and—get this—celery.

More Snuff
"The society is now selling more snuff than at any time since before World War II," said a spokesman.
A blend growing in popularity is a mixture that took two years to perfect. It features a smell of coffee and brandy.
Snuff sniffing began in Britain in the 17th Century, and throughout the 18th Century

One More Case

Singapore (P)—Another case of cholera was confirmed bringing the total on the island to 18. So far 193,000 persons have been inoculated against the disease.

It was almost universal on this island.
Dropped Off
Then came the popularity of cigarettes and cigars—and snuff sniffing dropped off.
Fear of harmful results from smoking is thought to have a lot to do with the growing vogue for snuff. That and the desire to be different.
One thing hasn't changed. Until you get accustomed to sniffing you're likely to sneeze

Chet Leaves Dodge Again

Hollywood (UPI) — Dennis Weaver, "Gunsmoke's" famous "Chester," has probably limped down the show's famous Dodge City main street for the last time.

He'll emerge at the other end, walking briskly in his new role as a horse trainer for a new series, "Kentucky's Kid."

For Dennis, this marks the third time he's ambled out of the haze of "Gunsmoke." Each time he made a pilot film for another series. On the two previous occasions, fate brought him back west.

"Kentucky's Kid" is the third time. Denny hopes it has the charm sometimes associated with the number three.

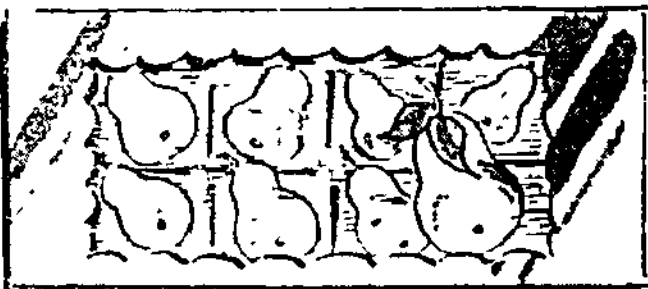

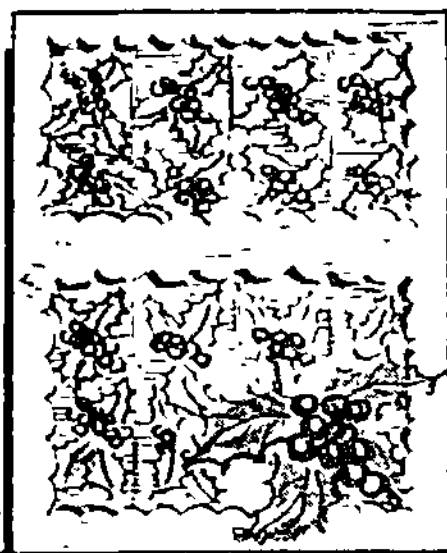

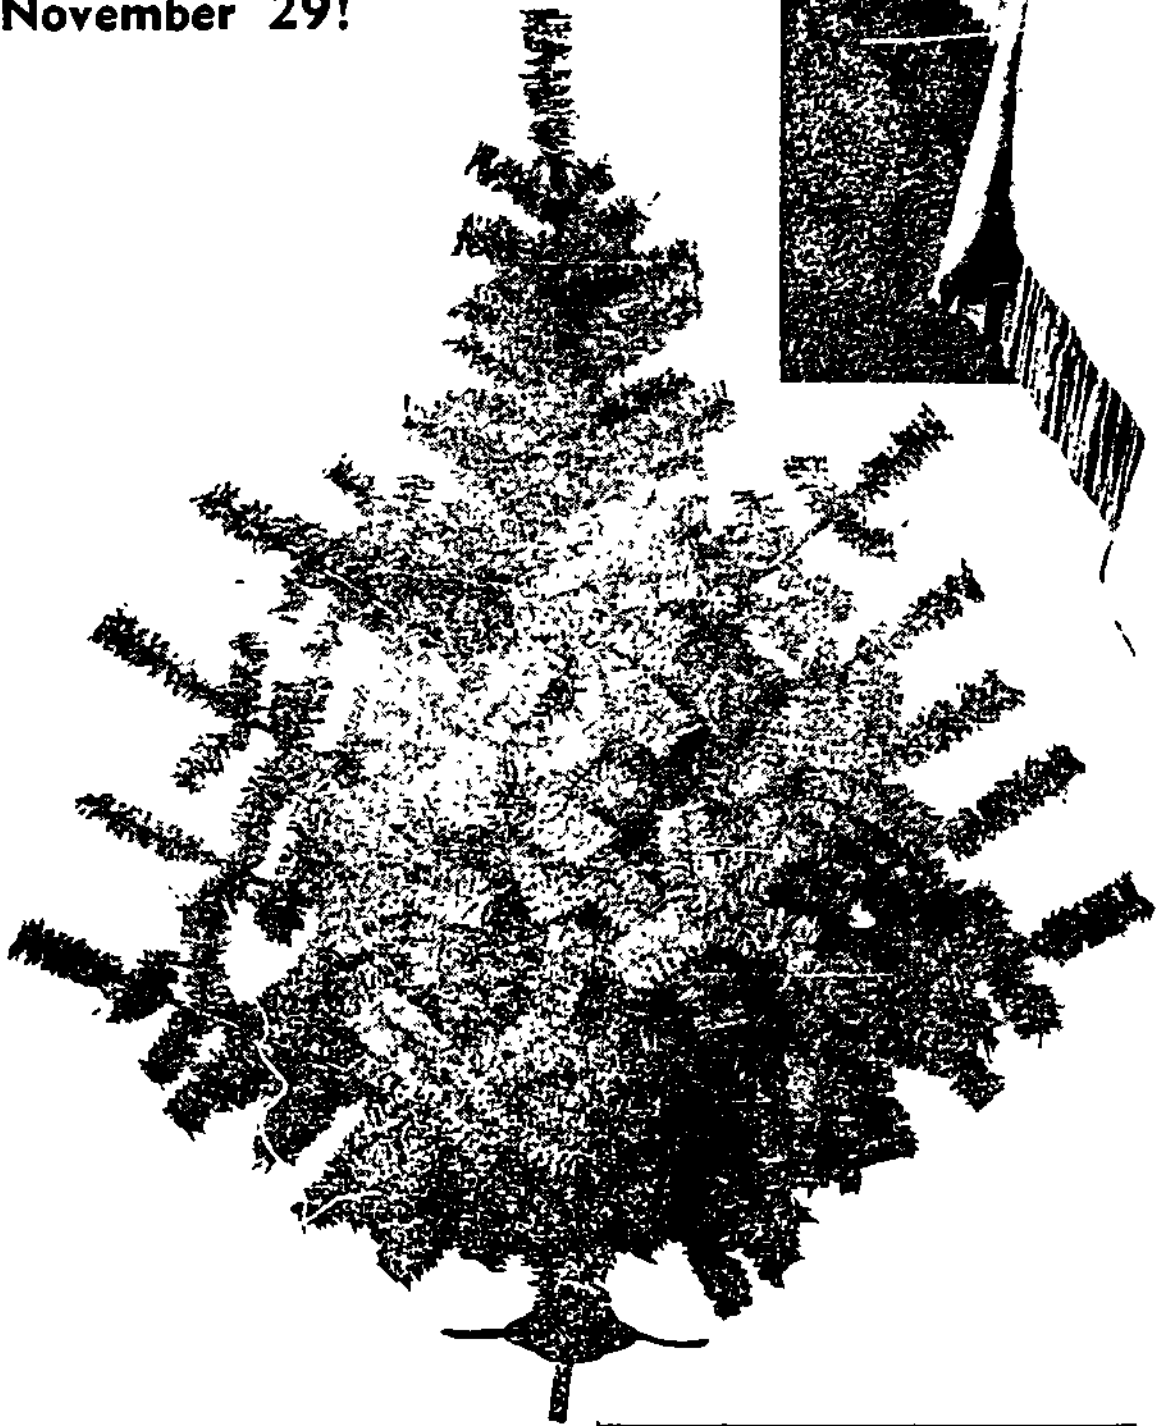

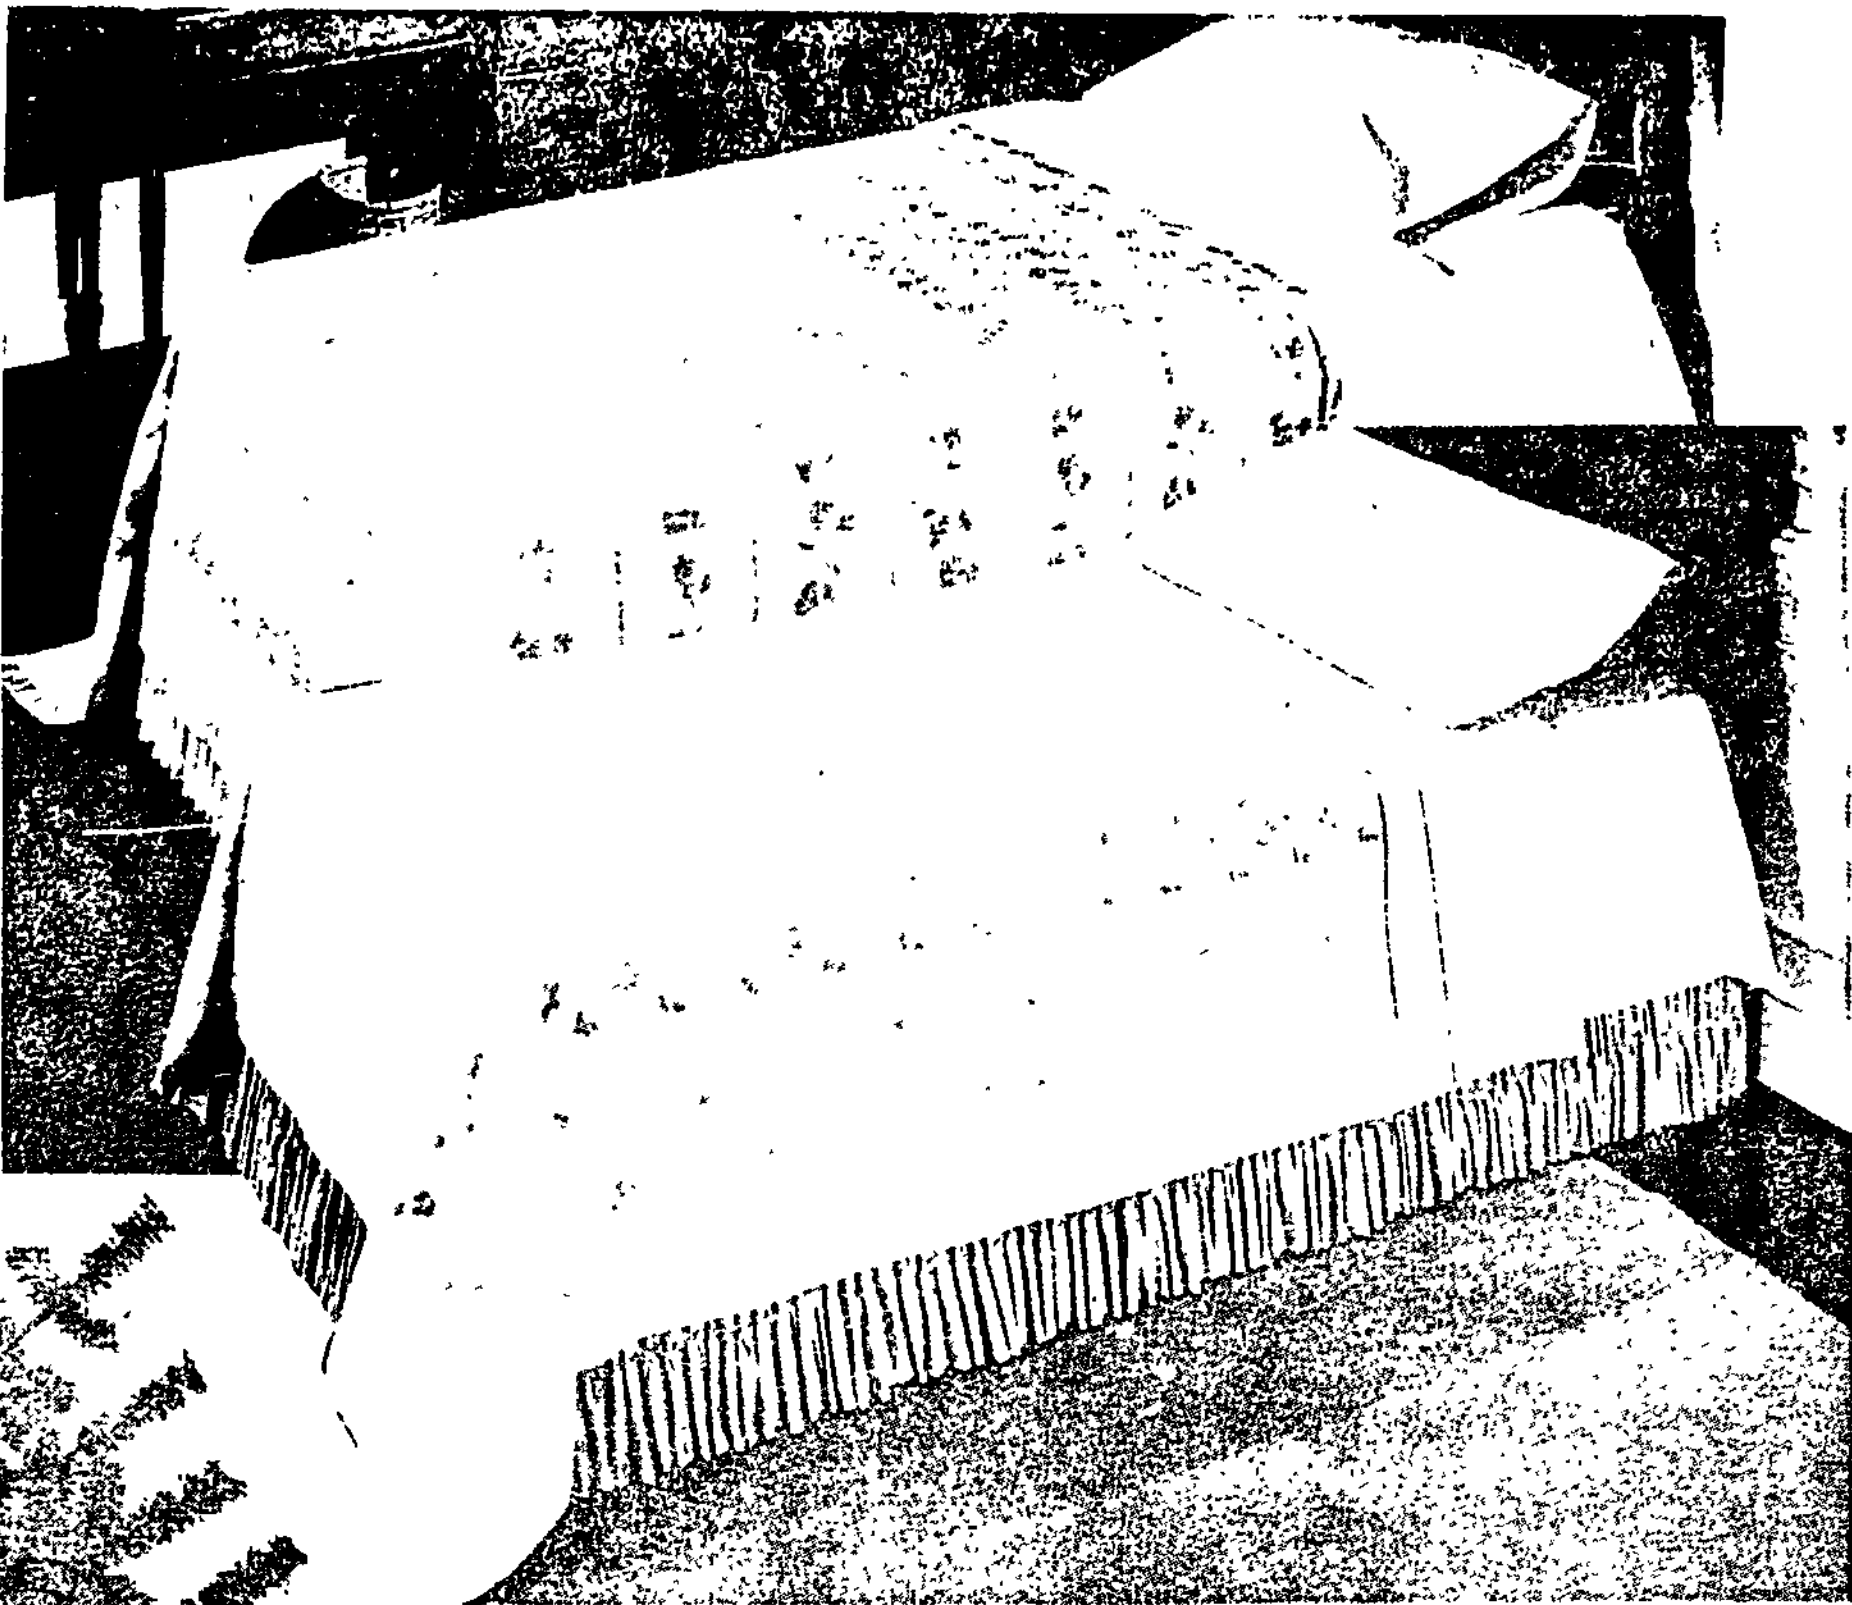

In his proposed new series, Dennis plays a widower. His co-star is a nine-year-old Chinese boy played by Rickey Der. The lad portrays an orphan nicknamed "Kentucky" who came to live with Chester via a Hong Kong adoption agency.

Weaver describes his own role as one "that's suited for me, dealing with thoroughbred horses." In private life, Weaver owns race horses.

"The third time is a charm and this is a charming show," Dennis said. "It's got a multitude of ways to go. To me it's a natural. It isn't a leap such as Chester to King Lear. It's leap to me."

PORTRAIT SALON, SECOND FLOOR

Thousands Stream To Kennedy Grave

Washington (AP) — Countless thousands, rearranging their Thanksgiving dinner plans, streamed Thursday to the hillside grave of John F. Kennedy. Among them was the widow, Jacqueline, who knelt and made the sign of the cross.

A monumental traffic jam developed as the endless line of automobiles, bearing sober-faced citizens and mothers with babies in arms, crossed the marble memorial bridge and other arteries leading to Arlington National Cemetery.

Amid the serried headstones, up asphalt paths, the people moved as if drawn by an irresistible magnet, enclosed by a white picket fence, where the eternal flame burns above the body of the dead President.

Dotted With Color

The hill sloping down from the Lee mansion was dotted with color—for many of these mourners wore red, green and other hues. Some of them bore faded roses and ferns, bought Wednesday at chain stores, in hope that they could deposit them somewhere near the grave.

Mrs. Kennedy, as if oblivious to mundane matters, missed a plane to visit the grave—her fifth pilgrimage to it since the burial.

A small gate in the picket fence was opened by a military hand as she approached, clad in black. There she knelt, crossed herself, and her lips moved in soundless prayer. Though she missed one plane taking off for Massachusetts, another was quickly placed at her disposal, and she took off with her children for a sad Thanksgiving dinner with the Joseph P. Kennedy family in the compound at Hyannis Port.

Before she left the grave, she talked briefly with 1st Lt. Samuel Bird, Army officer in charge of the watch. She walked to the top of the hill, to gaze pensively across the river at the storied sights of the Capitol.

Many others prominent in the nation made the pilgrimage, too, there were, for example, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and his wife, and Mrs. Peter Lawford, sister of the late President.

Inside the picket fence was a mass of flowers. One giant spray read: "God rest you, Mr. President."

New Mayor

Among those trudging up the hill to add to the floral display was Rep. John F. Shelley, D-Calif., newly elected mayor of San Francisco. From this city which the late President loved, the mayor-elect deposited a gift of flowers.

Accompanying Shelley was Pierre Salinger, presidential press secretary, more composed now than in the first pangs of sorrow.

Down the hill, in a green marquee, stood Andrew T. Hatcher, Negro assistant press secretary to Kennedy. He seemed to be trying to find fitting words to express his feelings about Kennedy, but he grimaced faintly as if in acknowledgement that he couldn't find them. All he could say was: "He would have won in 1964 by 10 million votes."

MRS. KENNEDY . . . prays beside grave.

Ladd Is Treated For Old Injuries

Santa Monica, Calif. (UPI) — Actor Alan Ladd underwent treatment Thursday at St. John's Hospital for two injuries—one to his hand and the other to his knee.

"He was bothered by an old injury to his hand," Ladd's daughter Alana said. "So he went to the hospital for some corrective treatment."

The 50-year-old actor broke his finger in an accident several weeks ago at his Thousand Oaks Ranch. Miss Ladd said her father also wanted an old knee injury treated.

Plan Resort Hotel

Budapest (AP) — Hungary plans to build a resort hotel for foreign newsmen and their families at Sofoke on Lake Balaton, the news agency MTI reports.

... ENGLISH TEACHERS STUDYING METHODS

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

San Francisco (AP) — How do you pronounce "novel," and "read," and "co"? And if you think they rhyme with "rove," and "bead," and "no," how can you be sure they don't rhyme with "move," and "dead," and "to"?

First-graders learning to read run into problems like these all the time, says Dr. Edmund Farrell of the University of California, even the word "read" has two pronunciations.

One of Reasons

This is just one of the reasons, Farrell said, why the nation's teachers of English are cooperating in an all-out research project to determine the best way to teach children to read.

Plans for the project were disclosed Thursday by Dr. Francis Ianni, director of the U.S. Office of Education's Cooperative Research Branch. Ianni is attending the 53rd annual convention of the National Council of Teachers of English which opened here Thursday.

Ianni said proposals for specific research projects are to be submitted by March 1, and the cooperative research branch is prepared to spend $1 million or more on reading research the first year alone.

Determined

Guidelines for the research were determined in a three-day conference that preceded the formal opening of the convention.

"Linguists tell us," Farrell said, "that many words introduced in the look-say method of teaching reading are among the most common in the English language, but also are among the most irregular in the relation between sound and written symbol."

In the look-say method, a child memorizes words by the way they look. In the phonetic approach, Farrell said, a child can have trouble because of the irregularity of the English language — as witness the words tough, cough, bough and dough.

Heated Argument

The most heated argument in American education concerns the emphasis on look-say and phonics in the beginning reading program.

Ianni said reading programs will be tested on children of varying abilities, and in the big city slums, the wealthy suburbs and small rural schools.

"There have been hundreds of projects to determine the best method, or combination of methods, of teaching children to read," he said, "but there has never been such a large-scale attack on the problem as this."

Wide Range

The research project will bring together academic scholars, classroom teachers, psychologists, linguists, and even mathematicians.

"First-graders normally learn elementary reading and basic arithmetic at about the same time," Ianni said. "We have asked some of the leading mathematicians in the country to work with the reading people to see what similarities there are in learning arithmetic and reading."

Other research projects to be tackled by the English teachers, with government sponsorship, include the best way to teach composition, language and literature.

Thousands Stream To Kennedy Grave

Washington (AP) — Countless thousands, rearranging their Thanksgiving dinner plans, streamed Thursday to the hillside grave of John F. Kennedy. Among them was the widow, Jacqueline, who knelt and made the sign of the cross.

A monumental traffic jam developed as the endless line of automobiles, bearing sober-faced citizens and mothers with babies in arms, crossed the marble memorial bridge and other arteries leading to Arlington National Cemetery.

Amid the serried headstones, up asphalt paths, the people moved as if drawn by an irresistible magnet, enclosed by a white picket fence, where the eternal flame burns above the body of the dead President.

Dotted With Color
The hill sloping down from the Lee mansion was dotted with color—for many of these mourners wore, red, green and other hues. Some of them bore faded roses and ferns, bought Wednesday at chain stores, in hope that they could deposit them somewhere near the grave.

Mrs. Kennedy, as if oblivious to mundane matters, missed a plane to visit the grave—her fifth pilgrimage to it since the burial.

A small gate in the picket fence was opened by a military hand as she approached, clad in black. There she knelt, crossed herself, and her lips moved in soundless prayer.

Though she missed one plane taking off for Massachusetts, another was quickly placed at her disposal, and she took off with her children for a sad Thanksgiving dinner with the Joseph P. Kennedy family in the compound at Hyannis Port.

Before she left the grave, she talked briefly with 1st Lt. Samuel Bird, Army officer in charge of the watch. She walked to the top of the hill, to gaze pensively across the river at the storied sights of the Capitol.

Many others prominent in the nation made the pilgrimage, too, there were, for example, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and his wife, and Mrs. Peter Lawford, sister of the late President.

Inside the picket fence was a mass of flowers. One giant spray read: "God rest you, Mr. President."

New Mayor
Among those trudging up the hill to add to the floral display was Rep. John F. Shelley, D-Calif., newly elected mayor of San Francisco. From this city which the late President loved, the mayor-elect deposited a gift of flowers.

Accompanying Shelley was Pierre Salinger, presidential press secretary, more composed now than in the first pangs of sorrow.

Down the hill, in a green marquee, stood Andrew T. Hatcher, Negro assistant press secretary to Kennedy. He seemed to be trying to find fitting words to express his feelings about Kennedy, but he grimaced faintly as if in acknowledgement that he couldn't find them. All he could say was:

"He would have won in 1964 by 10 million votes."

Ladd Is Treated For Old Injuries

Santa Monica, Calif. (UPI) — Actor Alan Ladd underwent treatment Thursday at St. John's Hospital for two injuries—one to his hand and the other to his knee.

"He was bothered by an old injury to his hand," Ladd's daughter Alana said. "So he went to the hospital for some corrective treatment."

The 50-year-old actor broke his finger in an accident several weeks ago at his Thousand Oaks Ranch. Miss Ladd said her father also wanted an old knee injury treated.

Aides, Friends Likely Advisers To New President

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington (AP)—A "Johnson team" of handpicked aides and longtime friends is shaping up as the corps of close advisers indispensable to any president.

But it appears that President Johnson's own people will be merged with members of the John F. Kennedy crew whom Johnson likes and respects, to form the new inner circle at the White House.

Johnson's immediate problem, in fact, may be to keep as many as he would like of the Kennedy men, who were fiercely devoted to the slain president and have little stomach for Washington without him.

Doesn't Lack Resources

Johnson has no lack of staff resources, however. Though only a handful of people worked for him directly as vice president, scores or hundreds of "Johnson people" are sprinkled through the staffs of Congress and the executive agencies. Most are Texans, all are loyal, and many owe their jobs to him.

Many others in the ranks of business, labor, local politics, law and journalism have proved repeatedly their willingness to drop their work and come to his side when Johnson sought advice or needed a job done.

Since the "friends of Lyndon" are legion, it has been difficult, in the first few days of a hectic transfer of authority, to detect who might ultimately emerge as the confidants.

No Recognized Method

Another problem is that Johnson has no recognized habits of recruiting talent. Because of long service in Congress and the vice presidency, he has never before held an executive job except that of Texas director of the National Youth Administration in the mid-1930's.

He got that job at 29—the present age of Bill Moyers, the slender and able Texan who is deputy director of the Peace Corps but happened to be in Dallas on the black Friday of Kennedy's assassination.

Moyers was summoned to Johnson's side and has hardly left it since. On Tuesday he moved into White House space next to the President's office — the office formerly used by Kennedy's personal secretary, Mrs. Evelyn Lincoln.

Though Moyers says he is just helping out and expects to go back to his own job in a few days, the betting odds are heavy that Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver has lost his prized deputy for good.

Might Be No. 1

Some predict Moyers will wind up as Johnson's No. 1 aide — a role not unlike that of Kennedy's special counsel, Ted Sorensen, but with a different title, for Moyers is not a lawyer. He was a newsman for the Johnson radio-TV stations, is an ordained Baptist minister, was a key member of Johnson's staff as Senate majority leader, and helped propel Johnson's drive for the presidential nomination in 1960.

The other office next door to the President's has been vacated. It belonged to Kenneth O'Donnell, who filled for Kennedy the vastly important job of appointments secretary. O'Donnell cleared his desk on Tuesday—for whom? There is speculation on Capitol Hill that the job might go to Horace Busby, another former Texas newspaperman who has done much of Johnson's speechwriting.

Keeping McBundy?

Johnson is reported to be anxious to keep McGeorge Bundy, the Harvard dean who was Kennedy's special assistant for national security affairs. Bundy has agreed to stay, White House sources say.

That choice seemed inevitable, for Johnson—though perhaps as well informed on domestic issues as any man alive—does not pretend to have Kennedy's grasp of the military, diplomatic and foreign aid aspects of national security.

Rumors flew on Tuesday that Arthur Schlesinger Jr., the liberal historian, Kennedy speechwriter and assistant, had resigned and Johnson had accepted the resignation. The report was denied quickly.

Schlesinger, a prime target for conservative critics of the Kennedy administration, had indeed filed his resignation to let Johnson pick his own team. Johnson persuaded him to stay on and, to underscore his regard for Schlesinger, invited him to sit in the presidential gallery for Johnson's address on Wednesday to a joint session of Congress.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said no others had resigned, to his knowledge, after Johnson's prompt request that all cabinet officers, White House staffers, ambassadors and agency heads stay on the job.

Few Permanent

Few of Kennedy's key White House men are likely to remain as permanent fixtures. Most will peel off sooner or later, but none felt free to walk out and leave Johnson to build his "kitchen cabinet" from scratch.

Most presidents want to name their own press secretaries, so it is widely assumed that the days of Salinger himself are numbered. The predictions on a successor have been purest guesswork so far: Johnson has literally dozens of skilled news and broadcast men at his call. He enjoys the company of newsmen, and they reciprocate.

Booth Mooney, former executive assistant to Johnson in the Senate and author in 1956 of the only book ever written about him, is considered a likely possibility. The book, "The Lyndon Johnson Story," is being updated and enlarged for January publication.

Friends of the President have passed the word that "Mooney could be important — watch him."

Likely Adviser

Gerald W. Siegel, vice president and counsel for the Washington Post, is an unofficial member of Johnson's team and almost sure to be a sometime adviser if not more. He was chief counsel of the Senate Democratic Party Committee for five years under Johnson, and helped draft the 1957 right-to-vote bill—the first civil rights measure to get through Congress in a generation. He helped again with the civil rights bill of 1960.

There are almost as many lawyers as newspapermen among "Lyndon's friends." Many of the friendships date back to Franklin D. Roosevelt's new deal—Abe Fortas, Thomas G. Corcoran, Benjamin V. Cohen, and James H. Rowe, all of Washington, are typical examples.

Other "old new dealers" and members of the Truman administration are frequently tapped for advice and special chores—Dean Acheson, Clark M. Clifford, Oscar Chapman, Eliot Janeway and Grace Tully are among them.

One of Johnson's proven friends in industry is Donald C. Cook, New York, president of American Electric Power Service Corp. Cook quit the chairmanship of the Securities and Exchange Commission in 1953 to become chief counsel of Johnson's Senate Preparedness subcommittee.

Cliff Carter, a Texas businessman prominent in the pre-convention campaign for Johnson in 1960, has been in and out of Washington ever since, meantime keeping Johnson's home base in Austin geared for action.

Sorensen Chief Aide On Speech

Washington (AP)—Theodore C. Sorensen was President Johnson's chief assistant in writing Johnson's widely acclaimed address to the joint session of Congress, associates of the new President disclosed Thursday.

Though he bore the title of special counsel to the president, former Lincolnite Sorensen was known as virtually an alter ego of Kennedy—a long-time bosom friend and most trusted confidant.

Although visibly shattered by Kennedy's death at the hands of an assassin, Sorensen stayed on in his White House office at Johnson's request and did the principal drafting job for Johnson's first major policy address.

Family Tree Getting Crowded

For the first time in more years than the family wishes to count, Hansen and Hansen in-laws, brothers and sisters, nieces and nephews—and, of course, grandchildren—came to Lincoln for a reunion on Thursday from all over the state and nation. All the family members (nearly 50 were present) are descendants of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nels Christian Hansen who came from Denmark shortly after the Civil War to settle in Nebraska, first in Lincoln, then Ithaca and Paxton.

Official host and hostess to the group were Brig. Gen. Harold Hansen, USMC Ret., and Mrs. Hansen of Philadelphia, Pa., whose son, Harold Dale Hansen, a midshipman at the US Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., was one of the few members of the family unable to attend.

Former Coed, Bride

At a 10 o'clock morning service which took place on Wednesday, Nov. 27, Miss Mary Lou Cradick of Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cradick of Uteka, became the bride of Kenneth E. Yeager, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Yeager of Alliance. The ceremony was solemnized at St. Thomas Aquinas Church on the University of Nebraska campus in the presence of members of the family and a small group of friends.

Mrs. Don Sievers was the matron of honor, and the bridesmatron was Mrs. Larry Cradick.

Serving his brother as best man was Larry Yeager, and seating the guests were Tom Yeager of Albuquerque, N.M.; Roger Cradick, Uteka; and Wayne Sisel.

For her wedding, the bride selected a gown of white de-lustered satin. The sculptured bodice was fashioned with a rousing, portrait neckline, and the skirt, which was caught into controlled fullness at the waist, was completed by a back panel of the satin which extended into a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held by a pearl crown, and she carried a white prayer book ornamented with a nosegay of orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. Yeager left for a wedding trip to Kansas City, after which they will reside in Lincoln at 4000 Randolph. A former student at Nebraska Wesleyan University, the bride is a graduate of Bryan Memorial Hospital School of Nursing. Mr. Yeager is a student at the University of Nebraska.

FUN NEWS IN SUBURBIA

MEADOW LANE

This is a day of rest for many suburban residents—especially mothers who hope they never see another dirty dish, another turkey, or another disorganized house.

However, these things play a very minor part in the lives of suburban residents who enjoyed the company of their friends and relatives on the special day.

The Meadow Lane home of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Farmer was a hub of activity yesterday when they entertained at a family gathering for Thanksgiving.

Their guests were Mrs. Farmer's mother, Mrs. Keith Mohler; her brother, Jerry Mohler of Chadron; and her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Maus and their children, Paulette and Susan, and Mr. Farmer's mother, Mrs. Dorothy Farmer.

Traveling to Laurel for Thanksgiving Day were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harrington and their children, Pat, Peggy, Holly and Judy.

The Harrington family spent the day with Mr. Harrington's mother, Mrs. Grace Harrington.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Kittrell and their children, Dan and Doug, spent Thanksgiving Day at the home of Mr. Kittrell's mother, Mrs. Blanche Kittrell.

Other family members were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kittrell and John and Connie, Mr. and Mrs. Al Sweetman and their son, Chuck, and Mr. and Mrs. Burt Sweetman.

Geneva was the destination point for the Jerome Fleck family which spent Thanksgiving Day at the home of Mrs. Fleck's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Clouse and daughter, Jan.

Family members also present were Mrs. Fleck's mother, Mrs. Mary Clark, and her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. David Clark and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hoffman.

Entertaining family members at a Thanksgiving Day dinner at their Meadow Lane home were Mr. and Mrs. Frances Kucera.

Their guests for dinner and the day were Dr. and Mrs. Paul Kucera and family of Omaha; Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Kucera and family of West Point, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kucera and daughters of Osceola, Mrs. Helen Kucera, Ivan Kucera, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fairwell and family, and Joe Dvork of Brainard; Mrs. Lou Whitbeck, Mrs. Charles Svoboda, and Bill Borowick of Omaha.

Out-of-town visitors who arrived on Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Judson N. McDougall and their children, Pam and David, were Mr. McDougall's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McDougall of Le Mars, Iowa; and Mrs. McDougall's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Utesch of Akron, Iowa.

The out-of-state visitors will be leaving for their homes today.

Traveling to David City for Thanksgiving Day were Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Salber and their daughter, Julie, who were the guests of Mrs. Salber's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Welker.

Also visiting at the Welker home on Thanksgiving was Mrs. Salber's brother-in-law and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Murphy of Wichita, Kan.

Why Grow Old?

Questions And Answers

Josephine Lowman

Q. "I have a triple problem and I hope you can say something about all of them in your Question and Answer Box on Friday. I am 44 years old and for the past couple of years my eyebrows seem to be thinning, permanently. My fingernails also seem to be so soft and break off so easily. To top it all, my lips are very dry."

A. All of these conditions seem to indicate that it is time you had a complete physical checkup by your doctor. There may be some systemic or organic condition or a deficiency in your diet which causes all of these. For instance, a thyroid deficiency could cause the loss of eyebrows, and a protein deficiency might affect your nails. Vitamin deficiency could account for the very dry lips.

On the other hand, the natural tendency of brows is to thin as one grows older, although there are many many exceptions. However, the whole picture you paint suggests a comprehensive physical examination.

Wants Opinion
Q. "Please give an opinion in your column about depilatories for facial hair. I have developed hairs on my chin and cheeks. It is not very profuse and is white and therefore not very noticeable; but it worries me. I know that there are facial depilatories on the market, but before using them I would like your opinion."

A. If depilatories are used on the face according to directions, and with some knowhow, they are safe and usually very effective. In the first place do not use a depilatory on your face unless it is one especially created for the face. The label will tell you so if this is the case.

Follow Directions
Also follow the directions which come with the product carefully. Do not leave the depilatory on longer than directed because you feel it will do an even better job. It might be irritating. Do not remove the depilatory sooner than directed or it may not have time to finish the job. That is, leave it on unless it is becoming irritating. Then remove it immediately.

The only facial depilatories I have seen tell you how to do a patch test on yourself and urge you to do so. You should do this. It rules out the danger of allergies. Never apply a depilatory if there is a break in the skin or any other unusual condition exists.

There is no evidence that the use of this cosmetic causes the hair to grow in faster or thicker.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Superfluous Hair" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet number 53 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Lincoln Star, Lincoln, Neb.

Family Tree Getting Crowded

For the first time in more years than the family wishes to count, Hansen and Hansen in-laws, brothers and sisters, nieces and nephews—and, of course, grandchildren—came to Lincoln for a reunion on Thursday from all over the state and nation.

All the family members (nearly 50 were present) are descendants of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nels Christian Hansen who came from Denmark shortly after the Civil War to settle in Nebraska, first in Lincoln, then Ithaca and Paxton.

Official host and hostess to the group were Brig. Gen. Harold Hansen, USMC Ret., and Mrs. Hansen of Philadelphia, Pa., whose son, Harold Dale Hansen, a midshipman at the US Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., was one of the few members of the family unable to attend.

Hansen of Wahoo; Mrs. Elmer Bader of Fremont; Gen. Harold D. Hansen, and Mrs. Hansen of Seal Beach, Cal.

Former Coed, Bride

At a 10 o'clock morning service which took place on Wednesday, Nov. 27, Miss Mary Lou Cradick of Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cradick of Utica, became the bride of Kenneth E. Yeager, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Yeager of Alliance. The ceremony was solemnized at St. Thomas Aquinas Church on the University of Nebraska campus in the presence of members of the family and a small group of friends.

Mrs. Don Sievers was the matron of honor, and the bridesmatron was Mrs. Larry Cradick.

Serving his brother as best man was Larry Yeager, and seating the guests were Tom Yeager of Albuquerque, N.M.; Roger Cradick, Utica; and Wayne Sisel.

For her wedding, the bride selected a gown of white de-lustered satin. The sculptured bodice was fashioned with a rounding, portrait neckline, and the skirt, which was caught into controlled fullness at the waist, was completed by a back panel of the satin which extended into a chapel train. The wedding of Miss Joy Mae Brundige, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Tucker, and James John Marple, son of Mrs. Theresa Marple, took place on Thursday afternoon, Nov. 28, at the United Lutheran Church. The lines of the 4 o'clock service were read by the Rev. H. G. Knaub before an altar appointed with gold chrysanthemums, and Mrs. Allan Moeller, organist, played the wedding music. Mrs. Moeller also accompanied Russell Thompson, the vocal soloist.

The maid of honor and her sister's only attendant was Miss Carol Brundige, who wore a daytime frock of velvet in the autumn gold tone trimmed at the waistline with a small bow of matching taffeta. She carried a single large chrysanthemum in the russet shade.

Ronald Marple served his brother as best man, and seating the guests were William Marple, also a brother of the bridegroom; and Steven Backhaus of Omaha.

The bride chose white silk taffeta for her wedding gown which was fashioned in the period mode. The Empire bodice was designed with a rounded, shoulder-wide neckline and long fitted sleeves, and appliques of imported lace, dotted with seed pearls, emphasized the slim waist, beneath which the

Dear Abby

Catch As Catch Can!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 53 and have been married only eight years to a man who is 66, short, fat and bald. He chases women of 35 and 40. For the past six months he has been going around publicly with the worst kind of women. He has even brought them to the house in my absence, knowing I would arrive and catch them. He admitted to my face that he is trying to get me to divorce him, but I am not going to let him off the hook so easy. I made a bad deal and, at my age, I am content to sit with it. How would you handle him in the future?

WRONGED

QUIZ

You are South, both sides vulnerable. The bidding has been:

North	East	South	West
1♣	Pass	1♠	Pass
2♣	Pass	3♠	Pass
3NT	Pass	?	?

What would you now bid with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠AKQJ94 ♥Q92 ♦J3 ♣85
2. ♠KQ9763 ♥8 ♦KJ ♣Q952
3. ♠KQJ9843 ♥Q5 ♦82 ♣A7
4. ♠KJ7542 ♥K ♦AJ5 ♣A73

1. Pass. There is no reason to think that it will be easier to make four spades than three notrump. On the contrary, it is very likely that North will have a stopper in the suit led and will be able to cash nine or more tricks. A four spade contract might easily result in the loss of four tricks, particularly since North has twice shown minimum values after opening the bidding. The hand can stand the loss of four tricks in notrump, but not in spades.

2. Four clubs. This hand does not lend itself to notrump play and is obviously better adapted to a suit contract. The four club bid (forcing) permits North to go on to five clubs or belatedly show support for spades.

Minor suit game contracts are fairly rare, since most hands with a potential of eleven tricks will make nine tricks at notrump more easily, but in this case the danger of attempting a notrump contract is too great.

3. Four spades. The chances of making four spades are very good, since four tricks are unlikely to be lost, but three notrump might well turn out to be a risky affair. The danger of playing notrump is that the opponents, having the advantage of the opening lead, might be able to establish their long suit before dummy's spades can be established.

It is possible that both four spades and three notrump can be made, depending upon partner's hand, but, in the long run, four spades is likely to prove easier to negotiate than three notrump.

4. Four clubs. It is practically certain that partner can make three notrump with this hand, but a pass is not recommended because there is still a possibility of making a slam. Thus, six clubs would be a good contract if partner had some such hand as: ♠6 ♥AJ3 ♦K102 ♣KQ10852.

Investigating the slam possibilities by bidding four clubs does not seriously jeopardize the game. North is likely to respond with either four spades, five clubs or six clubs. The intention is to pass whichever of these bids North chooses to make, since we have done about all that can be done to arrive at the proper contract.

First Aid Learned

Ever splint a leg that wasn't broken? For some weeks now several Lincolntonites have been doing just that and more. Policemen, deputy sheriffs, ambulance drivers and attendants, postal and gas company employees and teachers are learning first aid in a class at the Red Cross. Instruction in the informal classes covers every area in which a layman can deliver first aid to save a life, prevent further injury and ease the pain of the injured before a doctor arrives. Once a week on Tuesday night for ten weeks the students get lectures and practical experience on treating such things as snake bite, heat exhaustion, bleeding, poisoning, dog bites and shock. For the past two Tuesdays, instruction has been on artificial respiration and the splinting of broken bones. Where needed, instructor Lonnie Johnson uses a student-patient to demonstrate the proper tying of a splint or the proper position for giving mouth to mouth resuscitation. After instruction the students practice on each other to get vital practical experience.

Here's how you put on a traction splint, to keep broken bone ends apart. Kenneth R. Buler is the subject used by Instructor Lonnie Johnson.

NSEA To Consider Tax Base Proposal

A broadened state tax base is called for in one of several resolutions which will be presented to the Nebraska State Education Association's Delegate Assembly when that body meets here Dec. 6th.

The reports of commissions and special committees which will be heard at that time will comprise the proposed NSEA program for the coming year.

The resolution, committee will specifically ask that the NSEA actively support and cooperate with any organization working to replace the Dues Amendment with an amendment which would provide that, should a general sales or income tax be adopted, a major portion of the revenue from such tax be allocated to the public school districts.

The Dues Amendment to the Nebraska Constitution requires that the state government abandon the property tax if a state sales or income tax, or a combination, is adopted.

Other Reports
Other reports of the resolution committee will call for:—state financial support to the public schools to provide

Rabbi Silver, World Jewish Leader, Dies

Cleveland (AP) — Rabbi Abba Silver, a leader in world Jewry for almost half a century, died Thursday of an apparent heart attack. He was 70.

The rabbi was stricken at his suburban Shaker Heights home. He was taken to Lakeside Hospital, where he died. He had waged an untiring battle for the establishment of the state of Israel in the 1940s and won an international reputation for his lifelong leadership in the world Zionist movement.

Scholar, Author
He was a dynamic speaker, a scholar, author and spiritual leader of The Temple, one of the nation's largest liberal Jewish congregations.

Last January he was honored at a testimonial dinner here by state and national well-known officials, including Anthony J. Celebrezze, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, one time Cleveland mayor. The late President John F. Kennedy, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion of Israel were among scores of world leaders who sent messages then.

Deadly Poison Fatal To Child

Miami (UPI) — A 23-month-old boy died Thursday from the effects of a deadly poison accidentally left with in his reach.

Seven of Kenneth Stanley's playmates, who also played near the two containers of parathion poison, were treated in a hospital.

Kenneth died at a hospital of lung paralysis. He fell unconscious Wednesday apparently after inhaling fumes from the insecticide powder, which attacks the nervous system.

Mrs. Arthur Stanley, said two quart jars of parathion were left on a shelf in the apartment by her father, who died about two years ago.

She said repairs were working in the 12-unit apartment building Wednesday, "and when they were in ours, they must have taken the poison off the shelf."

A full quart of the poison and another container about half full were found on the floor of the apartment immediately after Kenneth became unconscious and the other children showed signs of being ill.

The poison attacks the nervous system and thus affects muscles which control breathing, sometimes causing spasms and in more severe cases, paralysis.

SMALL PLANE CRASH KILLS 5

Crab Orchard, Tenn. (AP) — A small town druggist, his wife and three children were killed Thursday when their small plane spun out of control and crashed into Millstone Mountain just east of here.

Authorities identified the dead as George McCall Finley, 42, of Laurensburg, Tenn.; his wife, Grace, 40; and their children, Grace Elsie, 12, Ellen Caldwell, 11, and George McCall Finley Jr., 9.

The Finleys were en route to Knoxville for a holiday weekend that was to have included Saturday's traditional Vanderbilt-Tennessee football game.

Czechs Ease Travel Rules

Berlin (AP) — Communist Czechoslovakia, once tight-fisted with visas for Westerners, has adopted the East bloc's most liberal travel regulations.

The new rules, announced here by Czechoslovakia's military mission, make a visit to that country almost as easy as a trip to Yugoslavia, where Western tourists have been flocking for years.

A spokesman said any Czechoslovak mission will issue a visa within 24 hours. Applicants do not have to give a reason for their trip and do not have to give their destination, both formerly required.

The Czechoslovak press says new regulations were possible because of relaxed tension between East and West.

Remedy For Stuck Piston 'Little Heavy'

Milwaukee (AP) — The story of the stuck piston added a new—and costly—chapter Thursday.

The piston, 16 feet long and 18 inches in diameter, was jammed between two 3 by 5 foot metal plates of a large press used to crush automobile bodies into scrap.

Officials of the Logemann Brothers Co., which manufactures the presses, tried several ways to free the piston, but it remained stuck. They finally decided to call in a dynamite expert and selected Thanksgiving Day so normal plant operations would not be disturbed.

A half pound of jellied explosive was packed around the cylinder. The explosive was touched off—but the piston remained stuck.

Then a full pound of explosive was packed around the piston. Alfred Moehel, 57, the shop foreman, admitted the blast was "a little on the heavy side."

The explosion blew out two dozen windows in the plant and caused an estimated $4,000 damage to the cylinder and plates. No one was injured.

The piston? It remained stuck.

Texas Notches Perfect Season

College Station, Tex. (AP) — Texas, virtually clinched the national collegiate football championship Thursday with a thrilling come-from-behind 15-13 victory over Texas A&M.

Tommy Wade's passing in the closing minutes led the winning touchdown drive as the Longhorns closed out their first all-winning season since 1920 with their 10th triumph.

Texas already had clinched the host spot in the Cotton Bowl and its narrow victory over the Aggies gave the Longhorns the Southwest Conference title.

Duke Carlisle plunged across for the decisive score with 1:19 left.

The Aggies led the top-ranked Longhorns, 13-3, going into the fourth period on two touchdown passes by Jim Keller and fought to the last ditch. The sterling Aggie defense held Texas in check with pass interceptions, fumble recoveries and some great goal line stands.

But in the last quarter, Texas showed the mark of a champion.

A fumble recovery after an intercepted pass kept the winning drive going and some key sharpshooting by Wade plus vital running gains set up Carlisle's drive from the one.

It was a 27-yard first quarter field goal by Tony Crosby, the boy who kicks in his stocking feet, that helped furnish the eventual difference in the thrilling game.

Tar Heels Edge Duke

Durham, N.C. (AP) — Max Chapman kicked a 42-yard field goal with 33 seconds left to play and gave North Carolina a 16-14 victory Thursday over Duke, a tie for the Atlantic Coast Conference football championship and an invitation to the Gator Bowl.

A capacity crowd of 47,500 saw the Tar Heels finish the season with an 8-2 over-all record and a 6-1 league mark to tie N.C. State for the ACC crown.

Immediately after the game, North Carolina announced it had accepted a Gator Bowl bid.

Duke had gone ahead 14-13 in the closing minutes on a dramatic 24-yard touchdown run by halfback Jay Wilkinson and a perfect placement by Steve Holloway. Moments later came Chapman's dramatic game-winning three-point.

Congratulations From Connally

College Station, Tex. (AP) — Texas coach Darrell Royal received congratulations from Texas' wounded governor minutes after the Texas Aggies beat Texas A&M to gain an undefeated season.

The congratulations came from Gov. John Connally's wife, Nellie, by telephone from Parkland Hospital in Dallas. Royal had to leave the bedlam of the Texas dressing room to take the call in an Aggie coaching office.

"It was too much for you to watch all the time?" Royal asked Mrs. Connally. "Nellie, I wouldn't have watched it either if I hadn't had to."

The Lincoln Chamber of Commerce's move Wednesday in okaying a Capital City bid for the National AAU Swimming and Diving Championships for 1964 is a step forward in gaining recognition for Lincoln and for Nebraska.

If the Lincoln bid, which will be presented next week by Wendell Groth to the AAU convention in San Diego, is successful, Nebraska and its Capital City will reap benefits that it wouldn't otherwise receive.

Few things other than a visit by the United States President or another high-ranking person bring more national-wide attention to a city than a national sports event.

A sports event on a national scale puts the host city's name in newspapers across the continent and before millions of readers.

Nebraskans have been fortunate to have staged national events such as the NCAA Track and Field Championships in Lincoln in 1942, 1953, and 1959, the College World Series in Omaha annually since 1950 and such special events as the Gary Player-Arnold Palmer golf exhibition last summer in Lincoln.

A prime example of what a major sports event can do to put a city on the map is the NCAA track meet. The 1959 meet held at the University of Nebraska brought writers from New York, Los Angeles, Chicago and many other points across the nation.

These writers filed daily stories, all with a Lincoln, Neb., dateline. It may not seem important, but the more you get your city's name before the public the better known that city will be.

Not Known Everywhere

And Lincoln, Neb., is not a familiar name everywhere in this country.

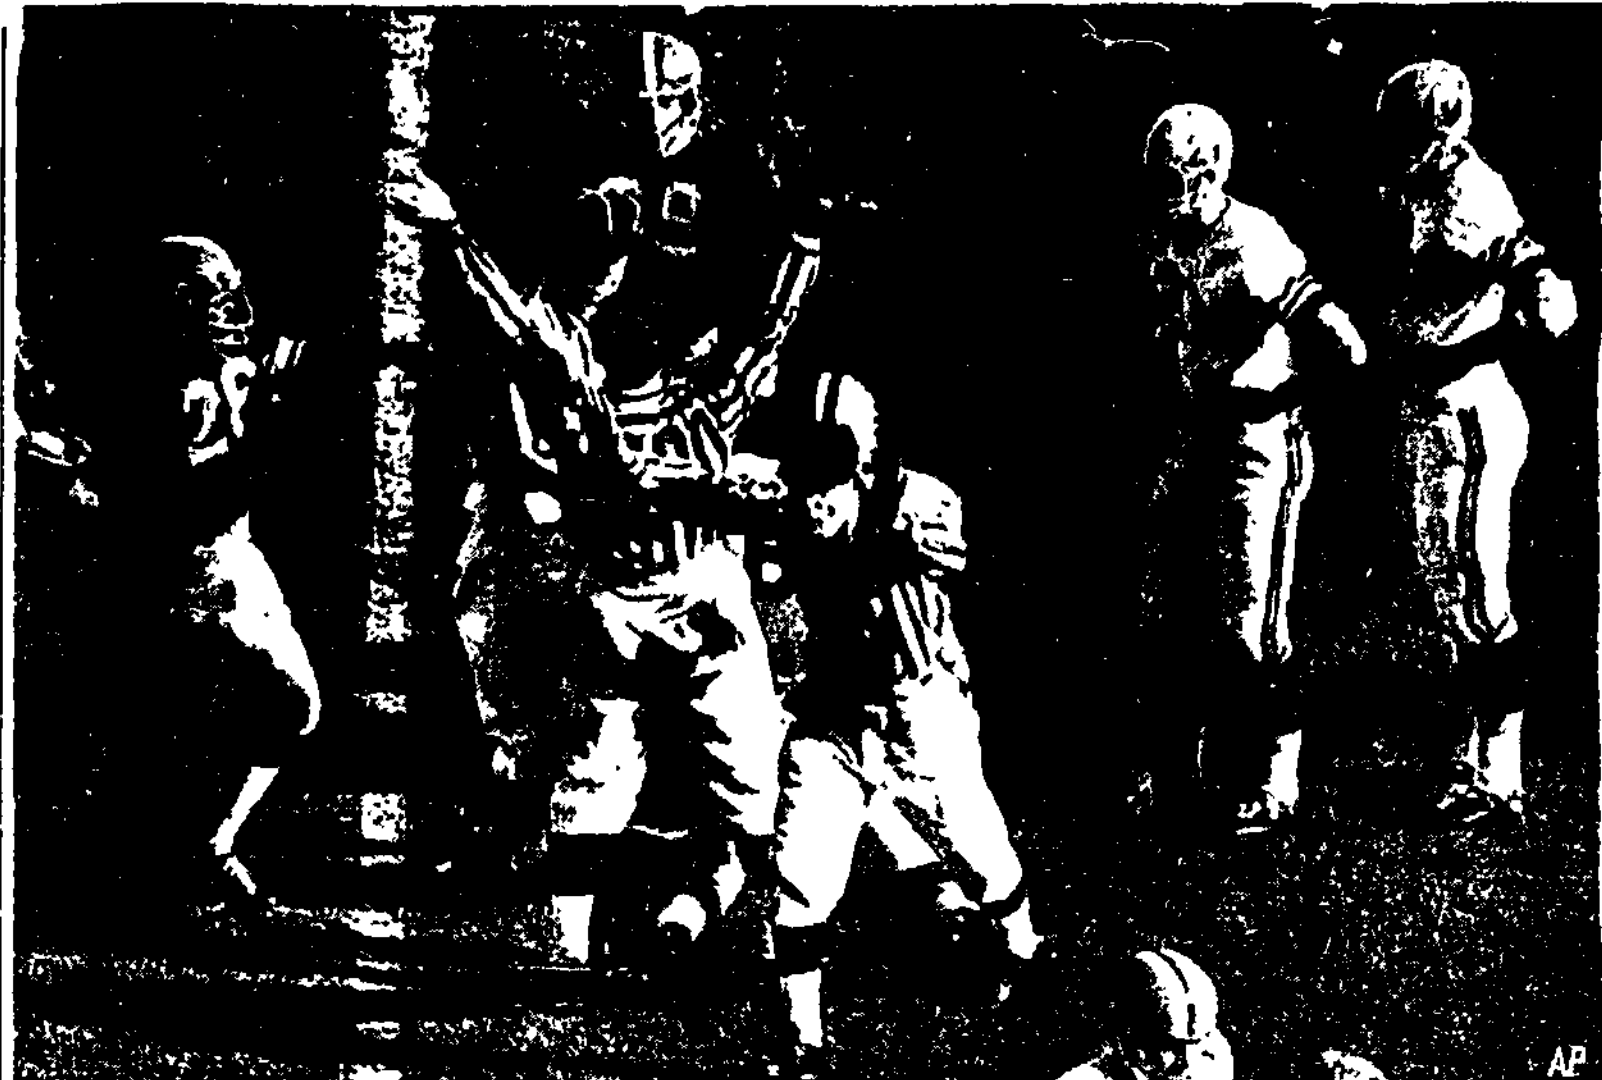

For instance, in writing about the upcoming Oklahoma-Nebraska football game last week, one major New York City newspaper said the game would be played in Omaha. The writer probably was not aware that the University of Nebraska was in Lincoln.

This image is changing, thanks to the Husker football team, and many more people will know where Lincoln is after the Scarlet and Cream gridders finish with their Orange Bowl task this winter.

Just as the Cornhusker gridders are to be congratulated for helping put their school and its city and state on the map, Lincoln's Chamber of Commerce is to be congratulated for its efforts to bring the national swimming meet to Lincoln.

If this year's bid fails, Lincoln would be in a favorable position for the 1965 meet. Conducting such a meet means many hours of work for those connected with staging the affair, but it also can mean many hours of entertainment for Lincoln and Nebraska sports fans.

Certainly holding such an event in your city cannot hurt that city. And it can do a lot of good.

WHO'S EXCITED? ... question on whether whistle blew before Spartan fumble has officials distressed.

Deadlock Dims GB's Division Title Hopes

Detroit (UPI) — The injury-riddled Detroit Lions battled the favored Green Bay Packers to a standoff on fourth down to climax a 78-yard touchdown drive and Wayne Walker converted to give the Lions the tie in the final Thanksgiving classic between the keen rivals.

The deadlock dimmed, but did not kill the title hopes of the Packers, who now have a 9-2-1 record in the Western Division of the National Football League. The Chicago Bears lead the division with a 9-1-1 record.

Nick Pietrosante dove into the end zone from one foot out on fourth down to climax a 78-yard touchdown drive and Wayne Walker converted to give the Lions the tie in the final Thanksgiving classic between the keen rivals.

The Packers, nine-point favorites, had moved ahead 13-6, on a seven-yard touchdown pass from Bart Starr to Ron Kramer with 9:07 left in the game. The Lions then took over on their own 22 and Earl Morrall directed the 78-yard touchdown drive that took almost nine minutes and was given impetus on a pass interference penalty against Jesse Whitten on the goal line.

An extra point attempt by Jerry Kramer after the Packers' first touchdown was blocked by John Gordy late in the second period. That might have been the winning margin.

Kramer also missed field goals of 10 and 49 yards, while Walker missed from the 42, 52 and 40. But he connected on field goals of 37 and 27 yards in the first half.

Silent Tribute

A crowd of 54,016 and a national television audience watched the last of the annual classics in this series between the two teams. The crowd stood in a minute of silent tribute before the game for the late President Kennedy.

The Lions, who had lost three straight games, made a game try at duplicating last year's Thanksgiving Day upset of the Packers with a patched-up lineup.

DANCE FLOOR DANGEROUS

University of Nebraska halfback Willie Ross had his turkey leg served up by the university student health center Thursday.

Ross, after surviving the rigors of ten football contests, met his match at one of

Omaha's twist emporiums. A twisted knee cut short his activities last Saturday night and forced him to become the lone Husker stranded in Lincoln during Thanksgiving vacation. (Star Photo)

The Packers took a 6-3 lead with 1:28 left in the first half on a three-yard run by Elijah Pitts. It was set up by a 49-yard pass from Starr to Boyd Dowler, who escaped from a neck-tie tackle attempt by Lane and ended up on the three.

The victory boosted the Lion record to 4-7-1. It meant that the Bears would have to lose at least one of their remaining three games and the Packers win both of theirs to force a playoff for the Western Division title.

Reid Stars

Mike Reid scored both Gopher touchdowns, plunging three and two yards, and kicked both conversions.

The crowd for the early-starting game was announced at 55,271, but this figure represented tickets sold and not an actual head count. The game's kickoff time—10:30 a.m.—had been criticized by some religious leaders because of conflict with church services.

The Gopher defense was devastating whenever Wisconsin threatened. The Badgers were halted on the Minnesota one as the first half ended and never got closer than the Gopher 34 in the second half.

Minnesota drove 44 yards in nine plays for a touchdown late in the first quarter. Reid went the last three yards through right tackle.

Fine Stand

But it took a tremendous goal line stand by the Gophers to protect the 7-0 lead as the Badgers turned the tables in the second period.

Wisconsin drove 73 yards, collecting a first down on the Minnesota one with 30 seconds to go in the half as the Gophers were called for

Tip-Off Time For State Colleges

By DON SUMMERSIDE
Star Sports Writer

Tournaments will be the order of the day for the next month as state college basketball activity begins this weekend.

The Doane Invitational, starting Saturday, is the first of the holiday ventures. The majority of schools will occupy themselves with tournaments and out-of-state foes before plunging into conference play in January.

Doane's fete pits Sterling College and Friends University of Kansas against the host Tigers and Concordia. Sterling is the defending champ.

Other Meets

Other tournaments in the next month include Nebraska Wesleyan Holiday Tourney (Dec. 18, 19 and 20) which attracts seven visitors from the Nebraska College and Tri-State Conference ranks, the two-day, four-team Beatrice Tournament (Dec. 27 and 28), the Graceland and Georgia invitational which Peru will attend, a three-day affair hosted by Hastings and the Top of the Nation Meet at Alamosa, Colo., which annually attracts Chadron.

A pre-season guess would tab Nebraska Wesleyan as the class of the state. Opponents such as Lincoln, Mo., and San Diego State may slow the Plainsmen express in the early going, but Irv Peterson's club should take the upper hand when it encounters Nebraska competition.

If there's a challenge to NWU, it may come from Hastings, a great Plains Association rival. The Tigers and Chadron are the co-favorites for NCC honors.

All-conference choices Walt Hamlett and Ron Priebe, a promising junior college transfer, 6-5 Bennie Crawford, and the widely-traveled Eddie Lorentzen will be on hand to carry the Hastings hopes.

Chadron Strong

Chadron counters with an attack rated the Eagles' strongest in years. Felix (The Cat) Sanford, a 6-7 honorable mention Little All-America, tops a crew of returning veterans.

Wayne and Peru, the co-champions last year, figure to fall from favor. The Bobcats, weakened by the departure of 6-8 Ron Snodgrass, hope their young talent will jell by conference time.

Wayne finds itself without last year's top scorers, Ron Jones and Dennis Johnson. The Wildcats managed a first-place surprise in 1963, however, and when a 6-5 newcomer carries the moniker of Bob Hope, who can tell?

Doane returns four starters from last season's 5-15 outfit, but all-conference guard Larry Andrews' knee injury dampens Tiger spirits. Kearney, flushed by football success, will have to shift its hopes to a small ascent from the '63 cellar finish.

Yankton Picked

In the Tri-State Conference, champion Yankton, is once more the team to beat. Dead-eye Garry Schuster is gone, but the other four starters return. Concordia, minus towering Al Buuck, can be counted on to give chase and Westmar may provide a challenge.

Defense Whips Spartans, 13-0

... FUMBLES COSTLY

East Lansing, Mich. (AP) — Illinois used a solid defense built around burly Dick Butkus and combined a talent for pouncing on fumbles and picking off passes to whip Michigan State, 13-0, Thursday and win the Big Ten title and Rose Bowl bid.

Illinois completely bottled up little Sherm Lewis, the breakaway back who has made so many long scoring sprints this season.

The Illini were alert opponents.

Illinois had a 6-0 lead at the half on two field goals by Jim Plankenhorn, a 22-yarder in the first period and a 34-yard boot in the second.

Bobbles

Lewis bobbled the ball to allow the first score. Jim Warren pounced on it on the MSU 26.

Illinois drove in from the MSU 40 to the 16 to set up the second field goal.

Quarterback Dick Proebstle was the butter-fingered boy who fumbled on his 14 on the second play of the second half to allow Illinois to take a commanding lead. Ed Washington made the recovery.

Fullback Jim Grabowski broke through the left side of the shaken Spartan defense, bolting 14 yards for the touchdown. Plankenhorn kicked the point.

the coast trip the previous year.

Great Win

It was a wonderful win for Illinois coach Pete Elliott who must be credited with the comeback of the fall after his discouraging 2-7 record last year.

Michigan State threw away a scoring chance in the second period when Roger Lopes let loose of the ball on the Illinois 12.

The rough luck continued right down to the end of the half. Sophomore fullback Dave McCormick threw a long bomb that looked like a touchdown pass on the last play of the second period. Matt Snorton apparently had it but then let the ball dribble through his fingers.

MSU again was knocking on the scoring door in the third period, driving down to the Illinois 20. Incomplete passes stopped this threat.

The Spartans made a good drive in the fourth quarter, going to the Illinois 10 before the superb Illinois defense stiffened to allow the winners to take over on downs.

Big Ten commissioner Bill Reed announced from the press box just three minutes after the game ended that Illinois was the official Big Ten Rose Bowl delegate and would accept the trip.

Illinois last went to the Rose Bowl in 1951. The two teams were tied for the conference lead in 1953, but Michigan State got the nod in a vote decision that year.

Coach Duffy Daugherty also took his Spartans to Pasadena in 1955 when MSU was second in the standings to Ohio State, which had made

Wisconsin Upset By Gophers, 14-0

Minneapolis (AP) — Minnesota struck for touchdowns late in the first and third quarters behind a strong, chilling wind and upset Wisconsin, 14-0, Thursday in a Big Ten wind-up postponed from last Saturday.

It was the Gophers' first shutout of the Badgers in 15 years and lifted Minnesota out of the conference basement with a 2-5 record. Wisconsin finished 3-4 in the league.

Minnesota scored in the first period with the wind at its back and tacked on an insurance score in the third quarter on a 66-yard march in eight plays.

If this year's bid fails, Lincoln would be in a favorable position for the 1965 meet. Conducting such a meet means many hours of work for those connected with staging the affair, but it also can mean many hours of entertainment for Lincoln and Nebraska sports fans.

Certainly holding such an event in your city cannot hurt that city. And it can do a lot of good.

WHO'S EXCITED? . . . question on whether whistle blew before Spartan fumble has officials distressed.

Deadlock Dims GB's Division Title Hopes

Detroit (UPI) — The injury-riddled Detroit Lions battled the favored Green Bay Packers to a standoff on defense and rallied for a touchdown in the last 16 seconds Thursday to gain a 13-13 tie in the final Thanksgiving classic between the keen rivals.

The deadlock dimmed, but did not kill the title hopes of the Packers, who now have a 9-2-1 record in the Western Division of the National Football League. The Chicago Bears lead the division with a 9-1-1 record.

Nick Pietrosante dove into the end zone from one foot out on fourth down to climax a 78-yard touchdown drive and Wayne Walker converted to give the Lions the tie in the dying seconds of the game.

The Packers, nine-point favorites, had moved ahead 13-6, on a seven-yard touchdown pass from Bart Starr to Ron Kramer with 9:07 left in the game. The Lions then took

—TOURNEYS DOMINATE EARLY SLATE—

Tip-Off Time For State Colleges

By DON SUMMERSIDE
Star Sports Writer

Tournaments will be the order of the day for the next month as state college basketball activity begins this weekend.

The Doane Invitational, starting Saturday, is the first of the holiday ventures. The majority of schools will occupy themselves with tournaments and out-of-state foes before plunging into conference play in January.

Doane's fete pits Sterling College and Friends University of Kansas against the host Tigers and Concordia. Sterling is the defending champ.

Other Meets
Other tournaments in the next month include Nebraska Wesleyan Holiday Tourney (Dec. 18, 19 and 20) which attracts seven visitors from the Nebraska College and Tri-State Conference ranks, the two-day, four-team Beatrice Tournament (Dec. 27 and 28), the Graceland and Georgia invitational which Peru will attend, a three-day affair hosted by Hastings and the Top of the Nation Meet at Alamosa, Colo., which annually attracts Chadron.

A pre-season guess would tab Nebraska Wesleyan as the class of the state. Opponents such as Lincoln, Mo., and San Diego State may slow the Plainsmen express in the early going, but Irv Peterson's club should take the upper hand when it encounters Nebraska competition.

If there's a challenge to NWU, it may come from Hastings, a great Plains Association rival. The Tigers and Chadron are the co-favorites for NCC honors.

All-Conference choices Walt Hamlett and Ron Priebe, a promising junior college transfer, 6-5 Bennie Crawford, and the widely-traveled Eddie Lorentzen will be on hand to carry the Hastings hopes.

Chadron Strong
Chadron counters with an attack rated the Eagles' strongest in years. Felix (The Cat) Sanford, a 6-7 honorable mention Little All-America, tops a crew of returning veterans.

Wayne and Peru, the co-champions last year, figure to fall from favor. The Bobcats, weakened by the departure of 6-8 Ron Snodgrass, hope their young talent will jell by conference time. Wayne finds itself without last year's top scorers, Ron Jones and Dennis Johnson. The Wildcats managed a first-place surprise in 1963, however, and when a 6-5 newcomer carries the moniker of Bob Hope, who can tell?

Doane returns four starters from last season's 5-15 outfit, but all-conference guard Larry Andrews' knee injury dampens Tiger spirits. Kearney, flushed by football success, will have to shift its hopes to a small ascent from the '63 cellar finish.

Yankton Picked
In the Tri-State Conference, champion Yankton, is once more the team to beat. Dead-eye Garry Schuster is gone, but the other four starters return. Concordia, minus towering Al Buuck, can be counted on to give chase and Westmar may provide a challenge.

Emporia and Ft. Hays tied for the Central Intercollegiate Conference crown last season and Emporia gets the nod again, having lost just one regular. Ft. Hays pins its hopes on its lone returnee, Sam (Gang War) McDowell, an aggressive 5-11 forward and the Tigers' third-ranking scorer in 1963.

Omaha will seek to improve on a 10-12 mark and a 4-6 loop showing.

The week's slate:

NOV. 29
Southwest Kansas at Peru
NOV. 30
Doane Invitational (Friends, Sterling, Doane, Concordia)
Southwest Kansas at Hastings

Defense Whips Spartans, 13-0

. . . FUMBLES COSTLY

East Lansing, Mich. (AP) — Illinois used a solid defense built around burly Dick Butkus and combined a talent for pouncing on fumbles and picking off passes to whip Michigan State, 13-0, Thursday and win the Big Ten title and Rose Bowl bid.

Illinois completely bottled up little Sherm Lewis, the breakaway back who has made so many long scoring sprints this season.

The Illini were alert opportunists.

Illinois had a 6-0 lead at the half on two field goals by Jim Plankenhorn, a 22-yarder in the first period and a 34-yard boot in the second.

Bobbles
Lewis bobbled the ball to allow the first score. Jim Warren pounced on it on the MSU 26.

Illinois drove in from the MSU 40 to the 16 to set up the second field goal.

Quarterback Dick Proebstle was the butter-fingered boy who fumbled on his 14 on the second play of the second half to allow Illinois to take a commanding lead. Ed Washington made the recovery.

Fullback Jim Grabowski broke through the left side of the shaken Spartan defense, bolting 14 yards for the touchdown. Plankenhorn kicked the point.

Official
Big Ten commissioner Bill Reed announced from the press box just three minutes after the game ended that Illinois was the official Big Ten Rose Bowl delegate and would accept the trip.

Illinois last went to the Rose Bowl in 1951. The two teams were tied for the conference lead in 1953, but Michigan State got the nod in a vote decision that year.

Coach Dufty Duagherty also took his Spartans to Pasadena in 1955 when MSU was second in the standings to Ohio State, which had made

—REID SCORES TWICE— Wisconsin Upset By Gophers, 14-0

Minneapolis (AP) — Minnesota struck for touchdowns late in the first and third quarters behind a strong, chilling wind and upset Wisconsin, 14-0, Thursday in a Big Ten wind-up postponed from last Saturday.

It was the Gophers' first shutout of the Badgers in 15 years and lifted Minnesota out of the conference basement with a 2-5 record. Wisconsin finished 3-4 in the league.

Minnesota scored in the first period with the wind at its back and tacked on an insurance score in the third quarter on a 66-yard march in eight plays.

Reid Stars
Mike Reid scored both Gopher touchdowns, plunging three and two yards, and kicked both conversions.

The crowd for the early-starting game was announced at 55,271, but this figure represented tickets sold and not an actual head count. The game's kickoff time—10-30 a.m.—had been criticized by some religious leaders because of conflict with church services.

The Gopher defense was devastating whenever Wisconsin threatened. The Badgers were halted on the Minnesota one as the first half ended and never got closer than the Gopher 34 in the second half. Minnesota drove 44 yards in nine plays for a touchdown late in the first quarter. Reid went the last three yards through right tackle.

Fine Stand
But it took a tremendous goal line stand by the Gophers to protect the 7-0 lead as the Badgers turned the tables in the second period. Wisconsin drove 73 yards, collecting a first down on the Minnesota one with 30 seconds to go in the half as the Gophers were called for

Oakland Cracks Bronco Defense For 26-10 Win

... TIGHTENS GRIP ON 2ND

Denver (AP) — Slumbering Oakland snapped alive with two third-quarter touchdowns that cracked Denver's stubborn defense for a 26-10 American Football League victory Thursday.

Colton Davidson flipped a 39-yard pass to Bo Roberson for Oakland's first touchdown and three minutes later Jon Jelacic grabbed Denver quarterback Don Breau's fumble and rambled 18 yards for another touchdown that erased Denver's 3-2 halftime lead.

The victory tightened Oakland's grip on second place in the Western Division with a 7-4 record and left Denver at the bottom at 2-8-1.

Gene Mingo's 52-yard field goal put Denver in front 3-2 in the second quarter after Oakland counted with a safety in the first.

After Oakland went ahead

26-3 in the fourth quarter Breau completed three passes on an 80-yard touchdown drive capped by a 35-yard screen pass to fullback Billy Joe for Denver's only touchdown.

Fullback Alan Miller's 35-yard run to Denver's two led to Oakland's last touchdown coming on Glenn Shaw's fourth down plunge from the one.

Oakland's best touchdown opportunity in the first half came on Clancy Osborne's interception of quarterback John McCormick's pass on the Denver 22. Running in the clear for the goal line, Osborne dropped the ball on Denver's six and Jerry Sturm recovered for the Bronco.

Butkus Biggest Reason Spartans Didn't Move

... LINEBACKERS STUNTED

East Lansing, Mich. (AP) — Dick Butkus, a one-man gang, operating in a surprise Illinois defensive shift, was the big reason the fighting Illini smothered favored Michigan State, 13-0, Thursday for the Big Ten football title and a Rose Bowl trip.

for the first time this season, the Illini shifted linebackers Butkus and Don Hansen in a stunning maneuver just before Michigan State would put the ball in play.

The maneuver thoroughly handcuffed heralded Spartan Sherman Lewis, whose 58 yards on 13 carries failed to depict accurately his ineffectiveness against the inspired Illini.

"We wanted our fullback line to be keyed on Michigan State's flanker either Lewis or also speedy Dewey Lincoln which left Butkus drawing a bead on their good fullback Roger Lopez," said the joyous Elliott.

Watch Lewis

"Otherwise our defense was the same as we played all season, although we kept harping for continuous pursuit of Lewis, so if he tried any cutbacks we could nail him."

As the jubilant Illini players stormed into their dressing room, they picked up a bunch of roses shaken on the floor by trainer Bob Nicolette. Each whooping player stuck a rose between his teeth and danced around the room.

Elliott, who will be playing a personal "rubber" Rose Bowl match, said he had no preference for a West Coast opponent at Pasadena New Year's Day.

Still in contention for Big Six rose bowl representation are Washington, Southern California or UCLA in a battle to be resolved Saturday.

Elliott, however, rated Washington the No. 1 prospect, followed in order by Southern California and UCLA. "We beat UCLA, 18-12, but you can't tell much from that," said Elliott.

The handsome 37-year-old Pete coached California's Bears to a 38-12 Rose Bowl loss to Iowa of the Big Ten in the 1959 game and quarterbacked the slick Michigan team which routed Southern California in the 1948 Pasadena classic.

Mizzou Winds Up Workouts For KU

Columbia, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri football squad wound up preparations for its meeting with Kansas Saturday with a light practice session Thursday.

Whether quarterback Gary Lane will play still is a question.

Lane, suffering from tonsillitis, was still in the university's student clinic and coach Dan Devine said there will be no decision until Friday.

Roberts Sparkles In 35-28 Columbia Win Over Rutgers

New Brunswick, N.J. (AP) — Archie Roberts directed Columbia to a four-touchdown halftime lead Thursday but had to score on a 38-yard run himself with six minutes left to offset a furious Rutgers rally and give the Lions a 35-28 football victory.

Completely outplayed in the first half, Rutgers caught fire in the third period and tied the score at 28-28 with nine minutes left. Then Roberts led a 67-yard drive and rolled out right for the final 38 yards.

The junior quarterback knocked down a Rutgers pass in the end zone in the final minute to preserve the victory.

Roberts scored two touchdowns, passed for two others and intercepted a pass to set up another. He completed 10 of 15 passes for 133 yards, carried 20 times for 125 yards, recovered a fumble, knocked down numerous Rutgers passes and made tackle after tackle.

Dec. 1 Deadline Levied On Quail In Northern Area

—The season on quail in the northern area will close Dec. 1, the Game Commission reports.

Quail hunters have been having good success this year, M. O. Steen, commission director, said, and the 1963 harvest is expected to surpass the 1962 bobwhite kill.

The northern area includes that portion of the state lying north of a line extending from the Iowa-Nebraska border westward along U.S. Highway 30 to its junction with U.S. Highway 138, thence south and west along U.S. Highway 138 to the Colorado-Nebraska state line.

Gunners still interested in bagging the elusive quail can fire in the southern area until Dec. 17.

Bag limits in the northern portion of the state are 5 in the daily bag and 10 in possession and 6 and 18 in the southern area.

Houston Harriers Win USTFF Championship

Tom O'Hara of Chicago's Loyola University, who ran as a single, was the individual winner.

Roberts Sparkles In 35-28 Columbia Win Over Rutgers

New Brunswick, N.J., (AP) — Archie Roberts directed Columbia to a four-touchdown halftime lead Thursday but had to score on a 38-yard run himself with six minutes left to offset a furious Rutgers rally and give the Lions a 35-28 football victory.

Completely outplayed in the first half, Rutgers caught fire in the third period and tied the score at 28-28 with nine minutes left. Then Roberts led a 67-yard drive and rolled out right for the final 38 yards.

The junior quarterback knocked down a Rutgers pass in the end zone in the final minute to preserve the victory.

Roberts scored two touchdowns, passed for two others and intercepted a pass to set up another. He completed 10 of 15 passes for 153 yards, carried 20 times for 125 more, recovered a fumble, knocked down numerous Rutgers passes and made tackle after tackle.

Dec. 1 Deadline Levied On Quail In Northern Area

—The season on quail in the northern area will close Dec. 1, the Game Commission reports.

Quail hunters have been having good success this year, M. O. Steen, commission director, said, and the 1963 harvest is expected to surpass the 1962 bobwhite kill.

The northern area includes that portion of the state lying north of a line extending from the Iowa-Nebraska border westward along U.S. Highway 30 to its junction with U.S. Highway 138, thence south and west along U.S. Highway 138 to the Colorado-Nebraska state line.

Gunners still interested in bagging the elusive quail can fire in the southern area until Dec. 17.

Bag limits in the northern portion of the state are 5 in the daily bag and 10 in possession and 6 and 18 in the southern area.

Many shavers cost less than a REMINGTON® 25. Then why do more men buy REMINGTON?

Every REMINGTON® shaver has 348 cutting edges. Made of surgical high-carbon steel, they're sharper, longer lasting than stainless steel. Honed on an angle, they slice whiskers off instead of "ploughing" them up.

This is the shaving head. Big—it cuts a big swath. Note the slots. 756 to be exact. Since the whiskers go through the slots to the cutters, the more slots, the faster the shave.

These are REMINGTON Roller Combs. They're right on top of the shaver head. Adjust to every type of skin and beard. They roll skin down, pop whiskers up into the cutters. Cut them off cleanly, comfortably.

More REMINGTON Shavers have been made and sold (over 46,000,000) than any other make. Reason enough to buy a little more? Yes.

Brandt Says Johnson Will Visit Berlin

Berlin (UPI)—West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt said Thursday President Johnson had assured him in Washington that he would visit West Berlin but was not yet able to set a date.

Brandt made the announcement when he returned here from talks with Johnson after attending the funeral of the late John F. Kennedy.

West Berlin newspapers Thursday headlined Johnson's assurance that the United States would maintain its commitments "from South Viet Nam to West Berlin."

They welcomed his pledge to continue Kennedy's policies.

The Communist press also reported Johnson's speech factually, without comment.

The Communists continued efforts to link Kennedy's assassination with right-wing extremists, and scheduled a series of five public meetings in East Berlin on the theme "The Background of Kennedy's murder."

Brandt said at Tempelhof Airport, "I am convinced that nothing will be left undone to clear up the facts of the assassination fully."

He said Johnson had told him on Monday he would come to Berlin. "Because the visit he paid the city in August 1961, has remained unforgettable to him."

Johnson came here as vice president, shortly after the Communists erected their wall, to assure West Berliners of President Kennedy's determination to protect the city.

Brandt added Johnson had said he had many other duties to take over as President before he would be able to make a trip here. "So that will have to be sometime in the future."

Washington (UPI)—A group of 350 chanting, Bible-waving people picketed the White House Thanksgiving Day urging prayers be permitted in all schools.

Many of the members of the religious group carried banners and placards urging Bible reading in schools. They said they came from all over the country and represented no one particular religious denomination.

One long banner carried by a dozen marchers said "We want the Bible back in the schoolrooms of America."

The first picketing of the White House since President Kennedy's death came Wednesday when a group urged that the United States invade Cuba now.

BRITISH EXPECT LBJ AND NIK TO RESUME EAST-WEST TALK

London (AP)—The British government expects President Johnson and Premier Khrushchev to resume soon the dialogue on east-west differences interrupted by the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

This was a highlight of Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home's report to the cabinet Thursday after his return from Kennedy's funeral in Washington.

A high government source also stressed that neither the United States nor Britain think it possible to achieve any basic east-west agreements before late 1965.

"The reason is that American and British elections next year rule out the likelihood of any far-reaching shifts in east-west postures," the informant explained. "In addition, fundamental German problems like Berlin seem certain to be shelved until after West Germany's national ballot in mid-1965."

3 Accords Sought

Douglas-Home returned from his brief meeting with Johnson convinced Washington still is resolved to seek at least three marginal accords with Russia:

—Placing of observer teams in key centers on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

There has been some public speculation about the possibility of an American-Soviet, or an American-Soviet-British, summit meeting. But British diplomats and by all accounts American officials too, are cool to the idea. They feel a summit meeting now may prove to be unproductive.

Moscow formally has suggested that heads of government attend the 17-nation disarmament parley in Geneva when it resumes in January.

Th Americans, British and other Allied powers are against the idea although they did not reject it when it was put before the United Nations recently. They prefer to send their foreign ministers.

Paris Talks Set

These tactical problems will be discussed in Paris when the North Atlantic (NATO) Council of Foreign Ministers meets Dec. 15-17. The Paris session will be the first occasion for a thoroughgoing assessment of the state of the alliance in the post-Kennedy era.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk is expected to assure the Allies that the Johnson administration intends to press forward with the specific aims set by Kennedy.

Douglas-Home returned from his brief meeting with Johnson convinced Washington still is resolved to seek at least these three marginal accords with Russia:

—Placing of observer teams in key centers on both sides of the Iron Curtain as a safeguard against surprise attack.

—Taking action to prevent control of nuclear weapons spreading to non-nuclear powers.

—Signing of a treaty of nonaggression between countries of the U.S. and Soviet-led power blocs.

Washington and London also consider there may be scope for progress in disarmament, trade and other confidence-building measures.

The big question being weighed now is how to get east-west talks going again.

Literary Business Baiting Rarely Based On Facts

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

Those who sneer at the American economic system are oftentimes and obsolete. Chipping on the cynical ground that "business is business" is the self interest of business enterprise, who know that it is important to conserve intangible capital in the form of good will on the part of customers. Referring to the contemporary lack of realism in literary sniping at the modern corporation, John Chamberlain writes: "In the days when I was doing a column of book criticism, this sort of stuff came over my desk regularly like a bore. It also happened to be a tremendous distortion of the truth, as I came to know when I deserted the book world to write corporate stories for a business magazine."

Routine business baiting in these days of high level employment is not even good demagoguery or boob appeal. The emotional receptivity for attacks on the institution of business was better in the Nineteen Thirties when 13,000,000 persons out of a much smaller work force were unemployed.

tem, predicated on dishonesty and exploitation of the customer, would hardly be attractive for long term investment.

The logic behind the ethics of U.S. business includes an awareness that corporate profit lies in the prospect for repeat orders from satisfied customers. Few successful businesses are built on a one time shot or on hit-and-run methods.

The stressing of integrity in business has been carried further in the United States than in some foreign countries. Some years ago when I was in Athens, Greece I made reservations back to New York via a European air carrier with a planned stopover in Northern Europe. A cable advised the Athens office of the airline that reservations had been made aloft, including a lower berth—in those days of prop planes—from the European port to New York, but that no room was available in the leading hotels because of a convention. When I indicated that, if the hotels were filled, I would bypass the city, and return via another airline with a different stopover city, the airline countered that it would place the company suite at my disposal, and would meet me at the airport at the European destination.

However, no one met me, and when I taxied to the hotel, I found that it was a modest motel-type, which terraced down a hill, and my suite turned out to be a small bedroom without a bath—far different from the suite which had been described. Then I phoned the airline to reconfirm travel reservations, and was informed that the company was holding an upper berth, not a lower. When I insisted that an error had been made, the clerk asked for the symbol on my ticket, and when I read it he indicated that there had been no mistake—that the code showed that I was holding an upper.

Uncomfortable Uppers

I then went down to the ticket office to try to make my transatlantic departure 24 hours earlier. The salesman, who apparently only had uppers left, let his imagination roam and stated that I would find uppers much roomier and far more comfortable than lowers. This proved to be an unmitigated misrepresentation.

Over here the railroads, in offering passengers all varieties of sleeping accommodations from upper berths to drawing rooms, are instructed to tell the truth—the whole truth and nothing but the truth. When all superior space has been previously sold, the American policy is to tell the facts and not make it appear that the upper berth is really better than the lower and superior to private rooms.

Prior to the acquisition of Capital Airlines, United Airlines, in its routing between New York and Detroit, had a zig zag course, and made an intermediate stop at Philadelphia. Reflecting company policy, sales clerks in New York would tell applicants at the United counter which competitive lines made a faster non-stop flight to Detroit. Such self abnegation was not philanthropic, but was based on the pragmatic view that in the long run it would be profitable to encourage passengers to phone this line routinely for air travel information, whether or not the inquiry led to an immediate order. The thought was that cultivation of public good will was more important than a single sale.

View Not Universal

This view is still far from universal. In some parts of this world, business is done on the "caveat emptor" (let the buyer beware) principle. Such cynicism assumes that the seller will never see the strange customer again. Such a view in the long run is much less profitable than a policy based on integrity, which pays off with repeat orders from satisfied patrons.

For more than half a century, American business, through the voluntary self policing of the Better Business course of regarding truth as a builder of intangible assets in the form of public acceptance and good will.

Truth in advertising tends to be economically sound in reducing barriers of skepticism.

The impact of voluntary efforts of businessmen in the direction of integrity on the free choice of customers and the attainment of personal and family goals is discussed in depth in this writer's current paperback entitled "The Attack on Our Free Choice."

Canaveral Renaming Brings Only Astonishment At Cape

Cocoa Beach, Fla. (AP) — Astonishment was the first reaction today of Cape Canaveral area residents to President Johnson's announcement that the cape and its famed missile-space center will be named for martyred President John F. Kennedy.

Bernard Fisher, longtime operator of a restaurant in booming Cocoa Beach, said "the two or three people who were in the lounge when the news came expressed surprise — no opinion."

"As for myself, I think changing the name of the center is a wonderful idea. I don't know about re-naming the cape—it's been Cape Canaveral ever since it was named anything."

Fisher was one of the self-styled "bird watchers" who stood patient hours on a beach to watch rocket shoots from Cape Canaveral, in the late 1950s.

Only Sandbags "I saw an early one go," he said. "I believe it was named 'WAC Corporal.' We stood on the beach peering through field glasses. At the launching sites, there weren't any protective bunkers then for the crews—only piled up sandbags."

Since the missile and space center began probing the heavens with bigger and farther-reaching rockets, the whole cape area has grown tremendously.

The cape, in pre-space days, was a sandy area that harbored rattlesnakes, weeds and scrub growth. The area was chosen for missile testing partly because it was cheap real estate and was so isolated that it seemed to offer a place to work on rocketry without observation by the public.

The first rockets fired from the cape were captured German V-2 models — the kind with which Hitler bombarded Britain. That was the only rocket available in 1950 when the program began.

In the late 1950s, when rocketry was approaching the threshold of a space operation, newsmen used to sit on a beach all day waiting for a shoot.

Watched Boats Mass departure of fishing boats from cape moorings oftentimes was a tipoff that a missile was going to be launched. When it was, the reporters would drive several miles to facilities where they could telephone their stories. Official confirmation of the shoot sometimes was not forthcoming for days.

Natives of the area were uncertain how or when Cape Canaveral got its name but they pointed out that Florida was first visited by Spaniards and the word "canaveral" is Spanish for a cane or reed field.

Governor Bryant, whose agreement Johnson said he obtained in renaming the cape and missile-space center, was traveling and could not be reached for comment.

WHEAT DISEASE FUND BEGUN

Harrisburg (AP) — The Banner County Wheat Growers Association has contributed $200 to start a fund for financing increased research into wheat streak mosaic.

"Wheat streak mosaic has become a great threat to the wheat economy in this part of the state and we hope that other county organizations will join with Banner County growers in contributing to a fund to get research started immediately," Willard Stoddard, newly elected president, said.

Stoddard said the Banner County group will bring the matter up at the Dec. 16 meeting of the board of directors of the Nebraska Wheat Growers Association in Sidney.

Escapée Gets 5-Year Term

Holdrege (AP) — District Judge Edmund Nuss has sentenced Terry Lee Durkee, 17, Viola, Wis., to four years in prison for burglary and one year for escape from the Harlan County Jail.

Judge Nuss ordered the terms to run concurrently. Durkee and Hal Franklin Walmsley of Denver escaped from the jail at Alma Monday night and were recaptured in Kansas.

Walmsley was sentenced earlier to four years on a burglary charge, one year for his first escape from the jail and two years for his second escape. The judge ruled the first escape sentence should run concurrently with the burglary sentence and the second escape sentence consecutively to the four-year term.

Literary Business Baiting Rarely Based On Facts

By Merryle S. Rukeyser
Those who sneer at the American economic system are outmoded and obsolete. Cheating on the cynical ground that "business is business" is contrary to the self interest of business enterprisers, who know that it is important to conserve intangible capital in the form of good will on the part of customers. Referring to the contemporary lack of realism in literary sniping at the modern corporation, John Chamberlain writes: "In the days when I was doing a column of book criticism, this sort of stuff came over my desk regularly like a bore. It also happened to be a tremendous distortion of the truth, as I came to know when I deserted the book world to write corporate stories for a business magazine." Routine business baiting in these days of high level employment is not even good demagoguery or boob appeal. The emotional receptivity for attacks on the institution of business was better in the Nineteen Thirties when 13,000,000 persons out of a much Moscow (UPI)—The Soviet Union said Thursday night it will renew its tests of space rockets over the Pacific Ocean starting Monday. Tass said tests of "new, improved versions" of space vehicle booster rockets would run through next Jan. 25. The Soviets announced last year they twice successfully tested "a new type of multi-stage carrier rocket for space research" in an area about 600 miles northeast of Midway. The second test zone described by Tass was 600 miles south of another American possession, Johnston Island. The Tass report said the USSR has asked all ships and aircraft to stay out of the test areas.

WISHING WELL By William J. Miller
A is a practical little name that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to help you out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. THE RYATTS

DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:

An ounce of insulin requires the pancreas glands of 7,500 pigs or 1,500 cattle.

Twice daily the world's highest tides funnel into Minas Basin, eastern arm of the Bay of Fundy. When the moon exerts its maximum pull, tides rise and fall as much as 53 feet.

Bushman of the Kalahari wasteland in southern Africa use an arrow poison so potent that one drop can kill a man if it enters the bloodstream. The primitive tribesmen get the poison from the pupa of a beetle.

If Antarctica's 7 million cubic miles of ice melted, the world's seas would rise some 250 feet.

Sale ratus — baking soda — was one of the first products to be hygienically packaged.
